On 5 December, Chelsea drew 1-1 with Atletico Madrid in the final leg of the Champions League. Striker Sael opened the scoring in the 56th minute, after which Stefan Savic's goal equalized. The result saw Roma surpass Chelsea for first place in Group C via a head-to-head tie-break. The draw also resulted in Atletico failing to qualify for the knockout stages of the Champions League for the first time as they failed to reach the knockout stages in the 2012/13 season. Chelsea's unbeaten league came to an end on 9 December after they lost 1-0 to West Ham at the London Stadium. Marko Arnautovic scored for West Ham early in the first half and Chelsea struggled to gain a foothold in the game as they gifted David Moyes their first league win at the head of West Ham. After the match, Antonio Conte conceded defeat in Chelsea's attempt to retain their Premier League crown, saying: When you tell the truth, it's true. Now we have 11 points less than Manchester City, who had a game in hand. In 16 games they have won 15 and drawn one. At 17 we lost four. When you have a competitor as a city and every game they win, it's very hard to think that you can fight for the title. On 12 December, Chelsea returned to victory in the Premier League, beating the newly-crowned Huddersfield Town 3-1. Goals from Tiemoue Bakayoko, Willian and Pedro provided the late Laurent Depoitra with simple consolation. On 16 December, Chelsea beat Southampton 1-0 at Stamford Bridge thanks to a Marcos Alonso free-kick, which was somewhat controversial 30 seconds before the two minutes of added time in the first half. However, one goal was enough for the Blues to secure all three points. On 20 December, Chelsea beat Bournemouth 2-1 in the EFL Cup quarter-finals. Conte turned the team around, making eight changes from the side that beat Huddersfield. Ethan Ampadu has been named man of the match after a remarkable performance at centre-back despite early decisions that injured Bournemouth striker Jermain Defoe. Chelsea took the lead through Willian, with Cesc Fabregas and Kenedy heavily involved in the build-up. Chelsea dominated the majority of the first half but Bournemouth were reinvigorated following the half-time break. Their effort finally paid off in the 90th minute when Dan Gosling curled in from outside the 18-yard box. The match looked certain to go into extra time but after kick-off, substitute Alvaro Morata almost immediately scored the winner. After the match, Chelsea drew with Arsenal in the semi-finals. In the other match, high-flying Manchester City played a draw with Bristol City, who shockingly defeated their City rivals next rival, Manchester United. On 23 December, Chelsea visited Goodison Park and drew 0-0 with Everton. With striker Alvaro Morata suspended due to a yellow card build-up, Chelsea have played Eden Hazard as a false nine. However, Chelsea lacked plenty of scoring opportunities and were eventually made to pay as Everton won a point in their last home match of the year. On 26 December, Chelsea took on Brighton and Hove Albion at Stamford Bridge. After a quiet first half in which the only clear chance came from Tiemoue Bakayoko, Chelsea scored 53 seconds after the break, courtesy of a Alvaro Morata goal assisted by Cesar Azpilicueta. It was the sixth time that the Spaniards have linked for the season to score. Later, Marcos Alonso headed from a corner as the Blues comfortably won 2-0 to extend their unbeaten run on Boxing Day to 14 matches. On 30 December, Chelsea played their last match of 2017 against Stoke City, winning 5-0 easily. Due to the overload of the rebar in the Period, Chelsea turned their line-up a bit, resting Eden Hazard and Cesc Fabregas. However, Stoke City have started a full rotation of the squad, with manager and former Chelsea player Mark Hughes prioritising the upcoming Newcastle game. After two goals in the first ten minutes from Antonio Rudiger and Danny Drinkwater, Chelsea looked set to dominate the match and did so by scoring three more goals through Pedro, Willian and Davide Sappacosta. Chelsea finished the calendar year in second place, one point ahead of Manchester City and 14 points ahead of runaway leaders Manchester City. After the defeat, Chelsea are five points behind Tottenham and fourth in the standings. On March 10, Chelsea played back, which was the victory of the home game against Crystal Palace with a score of 2-1. Willian opened the scoring for the hosts - backed by a deflection off Palace defender Martin Kelly - with a shot that crept into the left position. Chelsea spurned some excellent holes before doubling their advantage, again thanks to much of the luck. Kelly is again involved, with the former Liverpool player initially doing well to clear Davide Sappacosta's drive off his own goal line only for the ball to ricochet off Eagles goalkeeper Wayne Hennessey and hit Kelly before entering the net. Eden Hazard had a goal disallowed for offside and Chelsea's profligacy threatened to give Roy Hodgson's team a way back into the match. Patrick van Aanholt's late goal briefly pinned their hopes, but Conte's team held on to Palace remaining in the bottom three. After defeats at both Manchester clubs eased their grip on a place in the Champions League, it represented a welcome three points for Chelsea, who dominated proceedings from start to finish. In the second leg of the UEFA Champions League, after a 1-1 draw at home to Barcelona, Chelsea fell behind just 128 seconds after Lionel Messi shot Thibaut Courtois's feet from a hard corner. Messi then set up Ousmane Dembele to score home the second after Cesc Fabregas lost possession. Marcos Alonso hit the post for Chelsea with a free-kick before Messi's 100th Champions League goal - after a mistake by Cesar Azpilicueta - took the hosts out of sight. Alonso was denied a penalty after a challenge by Gerard Pique as Barca joined La Liga rivals Real Madrid and Sevilla in the quarter-final competition draw. On March 15, Chelsea announced that they had reached a settlement in the last easy issue, delaying the development of the stadium. After Chelsea's expulsion from the Champions League club defeated Leicester City 1-2 away at the King Power Stadium in the FA Cup. Just before half-time, Alvaro Morata made a pass to Willian to beat Leicester goalkeeper Kasper Schmeichel. Jamie Vardy made amends for a poor headed miss when he pounced in a goalmouth fight for a 76th minute equaliser for the Foxes. The decisive moment came just before the break in extra time when Chelsea substitute Pedro beat an onrushing Schmeichel N'Golo Kante's cross and headed in the winner. With victory, Chelsea qualified for the semi-finals of the competition. Chelsea are playing in this match after being knocked out of the Champions League 3-0 in the quarter-finals. Barcelona won 4-1. Position at the end of March Pos Team Pld W D L GF GA GD Pts 5 Chelsea 30 17 5 8 52 27 (25 56 Source: citation necessary) on April 1, Chelsea lost at home against London rivals Tottenham. Alvaro Morata headed in Victor Moses' cross to give the hosts the lead. However, Christian Eriksen hit a stunning equaliser on the stroke of half-time, his dipping effort from 25 yards dropping just under the bar and the more stranded Willy Caballero. Dele Alli then took centre stage in the second half, putting Tottenham ahead just after the hour mark when he produced a sublime first touch to bring Eric Dier's ball under control before slotting over Caballero. Alli was well-placed four minutes later to hit in the goalmouth scrum and a bottom-up win that moved fourth-placed Spurs eight points clear of Chelsea, who remained in fifth position. Chelsea faced West Ham at Stamford Bridge on 8 April. Javier Hernandez's second-half equaliser boosted Premier League prospects by West Ham and damaged Chelsea's slim hopes of finishing in the top four on an emotional day at Stamford Bridge, as last Wednesday, former Chelsea midfielder and assistant coach Ray Wilkins passed away at the age of 61. Before kick-off, Wilkins was applauded for a minute, and Chelsea players also wore black armbands in his memory. In the match, Cesar Azpilicueta pushed the hosts forward after Alvaro Morata's knockdown, and Azpilicueta dedicated his goal to Wilkins. However, just three minutes after coming into the match as a substitute, Hernandez kicked his ninth career goal against the Blues to earn a point for the Hammers. The Mexican's effort, cornered after Marko Arnautovic's fine cut, moved David Moyes' club six points clear of the relegation venue. It was only West Ham's third touch in the Chelsea penalty area. In contrast, Antonio Conte's men - who were in fifth position but are ten points behind Tottenham and Liverpool - had 23 shots on goal and were good value for their lead for a long time, including having two-goal goals from Alvaro Morata called back into the offside and offside quality chances turned away by goalkeeper Joe Hart. Moyes' victory as manager ended in a personal 15-match winless run at Stamford Bridge. On 14 April, Chelsea returned to the winning track with a thrilling 3-2 victory over Southampton at St Mary's Stadium. Opener Dusan Tadic - placed an effort after a marauding run by Ryan Bertrand - and Polish defender Jan Bednarek's left-footed shot looked to lift Saints out of the bottom three with manager Mark Hughes seemingly on his way to a first league win as Southampton manager since arriving on March 14. However, after coming on as a substitute, Olivier Giroud scored his first Premier League goal for Chelsea, a 70th-minute header. Just five minutes later, Eden Hazard scored a left-footed finish and then a second goal from Giroud coming in the 78th minute, eventually a match-winner. The win saw Chelsea move to seven points fourth-placed Tottenham. On 19 April, Chelsea beat Burnley 2-1 away. Kevin Long's goal sent Conte's men on their way in the first half. However, Ashley Barnes repelled a wayward shot to Burnley. Victor Moses' right-hand shot into the bottom corner proved decisive and ensured the Blues, who trailed fourth-placed Tottenham by ten points last week, narrowed the gap to five points. Sean Dyche's Burnley remain seventh in the 2018/19 Europa League qualifiers with an eight-point advantage over Leicester City, closing in on eighth place. On 21 April, Chelsea reached the FA Cup final, beating Southampton 2-0 at Wembley Stadium. Chelsea striker Olivier Giroud got the ball from Eden Hazard and soaked past two Southampton players in a crowded spot before striking the ball home. With ten minutes to play, Giroud was replaced by Alvaro Morata, who ensured progression with Chelsea's second goal after he headed in at the back post from Cesar Azpilicueta's cross. Southampton went close with Nathan Redmond's low drive from distance, while Charlie Austin hit the post. The victory meant that Chelsea head coach Antonio Conte would have beaten Manchester United head coach Jose Mourinho at Wembley on 19 May. On April 28, Chelsea beat Swansea at the Liberty Stadium, and Chelsea returned to the league after playing in the FA Cup last week. Fabregas' curling finish was a fitting way to bring up his half-century of goals in the Premier League, but it was Hazard's clinical exploitation of Swansea's mistake that made it, bouncing on a sloppy loss to Andy King's possession, weaving his way forward and picking out the right pass. Antonio Rudiger may have given Hazard his second assist soon after, only for the defender to turn away a chance at the far post after a corner. Hazard was at chelsea centre He made the most of some naive defending as Swansea provided him with plenty of room for growing runs on the counter. Chelsea - who skimmed the top of the bar after Alfie Mawson cleared Olivier Giroud's header - didn't see goalkeeper Thibaut Courtois really tested until the final 15 minutes when Andre Ayew fizzed in a shot. Kyle Naughton, Tom Carroll and Wayne Routledge also came close. Swansea claimed for a penalty when Gary Cahill challenged Nathan Dyer, with the Chelsea defender also involved in the clash with Jordan Ayew in injury time following a late barge from Ghana. Giroud expertly headed in Moses' cross in the first half after the visitors dominated possession and failed to capitalise. Chelsea remain in fifth but move within three points of third-placed Liverpool. With two games remaining to Liverpool one, Chelsea can move level on points with Champions League finalists when they face Huddersfield on Wednesday. Liverpool had more than 66% possession in the first half and created plenty of chances - the best falling to Mane, who were denied twice by Thibaut Courtois - but it was Chelsea who came closest. Bakayoko's header bounced inches wide just minutes before Giroud leapt high to nod a cross home from Moses. And Fabregas's clever run behind the defence created a debut he failed to convert at a tight angle. Chelsea also had better chances in the second half. Hazard almost danced his way through until Rudiger's header was ruled out for offside and Alonso's volley flew an inch wide. On 13 May, the last game of the week, Chelsea were defeated 3-0 by St James' Park. The Blues had a chance to break into the top four by beating the Magpies, but Liverpool's win over Brighton means they finish fifth and must settle for a place in the Europa League. A barrage at the home goal forced goalkeeper Thibaut Courtois to make sharp saves from the impressive Jonjo Shelvey and Mohamed Diame. But Ayose Perez poked home twice in the second period as his side finished the season in 10th position. Chelsea's best chance fell to striker Olivier Giroud, but the Frenchman's acrobatic effort was prompted by goalkeeper Martin Dubravka. Shelvey gets MOTM in this match. On 19 May, in the FA Cup final, Chelsea lifted the FA Cup trophy after beating Manchester United (1-0) at Wembley with eden Hazard's one penalty goal in the 22nd minute after a foul by Phil Jones. Chelsea won their 8th FA Cup and first since 2012.
