entrygiftsword Thank you very much. Thursday, October 9, 2010 The subject of this blog is a topic I've been thinking of all summer, and decided that I would be most productive if I started a discussion about it. The topic is the use of powers on a fictional world. Mankind has already discovered the basic laws of science, technology and social organization. In the future, will mankind find a way to exploit powers and abilities? I decided to open this up to everyone, and I'm specifically looking for ideas.

Obviously there are many ideas and the subject is large enough to be discussed for awhile. I've included some rules of engagement that will hopefully help focus the discussion. Stuff to take note of. Please take the time to pay attention to the things in italics. 1. Please don't take an open ended discussion and just go off on a tangent. 2. Everyone should be trying to keep the discussion to the topic. I'm looking to see if we can group together ideas in a cohesive unit. 3. I've got a policy that everyone has the right to post whatever they want, regardless of whether it is accurate or not. I'm just trying to encourage the most informative posts, but in the end, I want the most valuable opinions that I can get. I want to hear the greatest concepts, not the smartest, most articulate. 4. I'm looking for a logical discussion. Please keep the posts conversational. 5. All ideas are welcome. Especially the ones that you might agree with or disagree with, it doesn't matter. Post your idea and discuss. 6. If you think your idea is good enough, post your idea on another blog and link this one. Then, we can all comment. This site is run by moderators, who are volunteers. They are not paid for this, and are here to help. That means you are not expected to behave like a guest here.

But, we are also expected to behave like friends. Post as much or as little as you want, but the conversation is here to have a discussion. Don't post or make comments if you are not willing to listen. If you post off topic, or if you repeatedly have an off topic discussion, you will be removed from the group. And, please, no polls. If I ask for one, it's because I would like to have
