

Renew Your License Prior to Dec 31, 2012 for 2013-2014

1. Do all nursing licenses in NY expire on Dec 31, 2012? Yes. The Board and the State Board of Education have agreed to extend the expiration date for all nursing licenses to Dec 31, 2014. This extension applies to all nursing licenses issued on or after Dec 31, 2012. The extension does not apply to licenses issued prior to Dec 31, 2012. Licenses issued prior to Dec 31, 2012 will expire on their original expiration date.

2. How do I renew my license? You can renew your license online through the Board's website at www.nysed.gov/education/boards/nursing. You can also renew your license by mail. For more information, visit the Board's website.

3. Do I need to take any continuing education courses? Yes, you do. You must complete a minimum of 10 hours of continuing education for each license renewal. The Board has approved a list of approved providers. You can find a list of approved providers on the Board's website.

4. How do I take my exam? You can take your exam at a testing center or at home. For more information, visit the Board's website.

5. What is the cost of a license? The cost of a license is $100. This fee covers the cost of the license and the cost of the exam. You can pay for your license online or by mail.

6. Do I have to take any other courses? No, you do not. The Board has approved a list of approved providers. You can find a list of approved providers on the Board's website.
