Infinite warfare double xp schedule

Last week Sony launched the PS4 My Life campaign, which allows PlayStation 4 players to see some of their stats. Statistics include total game time, top 3 most popular games, a rare trophy and more. The rare trophy statistic provides the exact number of players who have earned the said trophy. Using this data, Redditor/u/Kalinine created a report on /r/CallOfDuty, estimating the total number of players, each Title of Duty title since 2013, received on PlayStation 4. It is important to note that these are just rough estimates - Activision has not confirmed these figures. The Black Ops 4 numbers will seem significantly low due to release just 2 months ago. The influx of players from Christmas has also yet to arrive. via /u/Kalinin/r/CallOfDuty In order the highest number of players to the lowest... Call of Duty: Black Ops III - 54.7M Call of Duty: Wwii - 25.5M Call of Duty: Advanced Warfare - 21.3M Call of Duty: Infinite Warfare - 18.4M Call of Duty: Ghosts - 13.2M Call of Duty: Modern Warfare Remastered - 10.6M Call of Duty: Black Ops 4 - 9.8M Black Ops III in Player Count Is Incredibly High, Probably to be available for free to all PlayStation Plus members from June 12 to July 11, 2018. While this is a rough idea of the total number of players, there are still many variables that contribute to its inaccuracies. The figures are supposed to be global, but this cannot be confirmed. It is not known whether these numbers are players who have launched the titles or simply installed them. According to Redditors, the figures only cover november 20 to December 4, 2018. The author of the report did not include trophies with a percentage below 0.5% to reduce inaccuracy. What do you think of these numbers? While it may seem unsettling to see Black Ops 4 numbers low, it is important to take into account all the above points. Call of Duty: Infinite Warfare players will be able to enjoy both Double XP and Dual Weapon XP courtesy of the upcoming event set for this weekend. According to a new Twitter update from Infinity Ward, the dual XP/double weapon XP event starts tomorrow, November 18, at 10am Pacific time (1pm EST) and ends on Monday, November 21, at the same time. Both bonuses will be active in competitive multiplayer, but it's not yet clear whether they will also apply to the Infinite Warfare cooperative zombie mode (although zombies at least benefit indirectly because the weapon alignment progress is split between the two modes). Double XP weekend events will apply to all available platforms including PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC. Infinity Ward revealed that the next Call of Duty: Modern Warfare Dual XP, dual XP weapon, and double level weekend will begin on Friday. Call of Duty: Modern Warfare Season 4 will be released into the world in just one week players set a lot new content. Unfortunately, there are still a ton of people who are aligned during the current season and with next season launching on Tuesday, there's not much time left. Infinity Ward is looking to fix this problem by activating dual XP, dual XP weapons, and dual battle pass tiers this weekend. The developer announced the news via the Activision game blog, along with news of the new Call of Duty Endowment package and the weekly Call of Duty: Modern Warfare playlist update. The event itself will start at 10am Moscow time (1pm EDT) on Friday, May 29, 2020 and will last until 10am Moscow time on Monday, June 1, 2020. This gives players three whole days to grind the game to the content of their heart. It doesn't matter whether they try to get that one gun up to the maximum rank, get that exclusive version of the weapon to reach 155, or trying to make it to level 100 in Battle Pass. No matter what the players want, they will be rewarded for grinding this weekend. - Call of Duty (@CallOfDuty) May 26, 2020 It is important to note that there is a whole day between the end of double XP and the beginning of Season 4, so players should not think that they will be able to take advantage of this until the start of the new season. While it would be good for Infinity Ward to extend the dual XP weekend, it's hard to see a company do it like it's never been before. However, this is the last chance players will be able to do this before starting, so they have to clear their schedules if they should grind. Double XP weekends are always a great addition to every Call of Duty game, and this one is no different. Giving players a chance to finish this season with a bang is always a good thing too, especially with the amount of content in the game right now. With the exception of those who play this game insanely, chances are the average player isn't on the max rank yet and hasn't unlocked an exclusive gun option yet. While an extra day or so of double XP for Call of Duty: Modern Warfare would be highly appreciated, it's hard to complain about dual XP in most cases. Here's hoping there are more double XP events during Season 4 after the game's lifecycle launch. Call of Duty: Modern Warfare is available on PlayStation 4, Xbox One and Windows PC.
