OK, I got this game during the Christmas season and was immediately hooked, but decided to write a review after I played a lot OK, I got this game during the Christmas season and was immediately addicted, but decided to write a review after I played a lot of it (I beat most table goals or bought codes to unlock all the secrets as well) to see how I would feel about it after a longer game. And here I am, about a month after I first started playing, and that's still all I can think about. Any of the 11 or so tables (some are better than others) here can become so addictive that you find yourself playing hours-long sessions. I just can't put it off. From older, more straightahead tables like Big Shot and Central Park to newer, more sophisticated ramps and targets to victory and Tee'd Off, and the exciting multiball frenzy that is Goin Nuts and the double table challenge of the Black Hole, this game is the funniest PSP owning a pinball fan can have while not in the arcade. There are some small ball and flipper problems; Very very rarely, when the ball travels at a very fast speed, it can pass through the fin or warp through part of the table together, which can cause frustration while in the middle of a white hot spot lane. However, as I said, it's rare, and all problems are far outweighed by how, like a real pinball, this game can become maliciously addictive if you don't look out....
