

Andrew Marvin

Andrew is a Political Science student at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and an International Relations Intern at YCAPS in Tokyo. Alongside his studies, he is a U.S. Air Force Officer Candidate in the U.S. Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC), where he is developing leadership and professional skills in preparation for a career in public service.

His work at YCAPS focuses on event planning, strategic communications, and public outreach. His academic interests include Indo-Pacific security and East Asian international relations.