FAST (Synthetic Template Installation and Assessment) is an IDL-based code that corresponds to the outstanding population synthesis template to broadband photometry and/or spectra, originally developed by Mariska Kriek. FAST is compatible with the redshift code of the EAZY photometric (Brammer et al. 2008) when it fits the broadband photometry; it uses photometric redshifts obtained by EAZY, and input files (catalog photometrics, parent filter files etc.) are the same. FAST also fits the spectra, optionally in combination with broadband photometric data points. There is also also an option to simultaneously fit two components, allowing AGN contributions in addition to the host galaxy lamp. Depending on the input parameters, FAST manufactures the most appropriate redshift, age, dust content, star formation timescing scale, metals, excellent mass, star formation rate (SFR), and their confidence intervals. The main difference with HYPERZ is that (1) FAST fits the flu instead of the magnitude, (2) you can fully determine your own grid of the input population parameters, (3) you can easily include photometric redshifts and their confidence intervals, and (4) THE FAST COUNT calculated as a confidence interval for all parameters However, note that, although it can be used as one, FAST isn't the photometric redshift code How DOES FAST work? FAST reads in parameter files (see example), and creates model fluxes cubes for a full-fledged population grid, and all filters and/or spectrum elements. To determine the most appropriate parameters, it only uses χ^2 installation. To avoid skipping more (multiples) minimum, FAST does not use minimal search algorithms, but fits each model cube point. The output parameters correspond to a minimum of χ^2 . Alternatively, there is now an option to remove a weighted average of χ^2 for excellent mass or SFR: see this parameter file for the appropriate settings and Attachment A of Aird et al. (2017) for more details. If spectroscopic or photometric redshifts are provided, redshift will be set to the nearest value in the grid. The level of confidence is calibrated using Monte Carlo's simulation. The observed fluxes are modified according to their photometric errors, and these modified fluxes are also installed. 68% (95% or 99%) The confidence interval is defined by the χ^2 in the original grid which accounts for 68% (95% or 99%) simulation of this. Therefore, the confidence interval on all properties is the minimum and maximum value allowed by the χ^2 threshold. If photometric redshifts (as provided by EAZY) are assumed, the confidence interval calculations are slightly more complicated. In Kriek et al. (2009) Attachment you can find more on this issue. AGN Template now includes the option to fit two components commensurate with galactic light (based on brilliant population synthesis models) and AGN. AGN AGN Components based on an empirically defined set of templates available in the Library/AGN. This code assumes all possible linear combinations of each AGN template with each galaxy template in the full population grid, looking for a combination that produces a minimum χ^2 (χ^2 without any components of AGN is also considered). See example_agn examples of installation of two components and related parameter files for additional parameter descriptions. See Appendix A aird et al. (2018) for more information on the installation of two components. Download and use FAST The latest version is now available at github. To download git clones (The ised_del.l, ised_del.hr, ised_tru.hr, and ised_exp.hr library need to be downloaded separately and need to be stored in the FAST/Library directory). To run in the IDL adds FAST/idl to your $IDL_PATH account. Alternatively, create an executable from the FAST/idl directory by running: idl mkexe.idl -arg quickly Please note that you also need to install IDLUTILS to get this version of FAST to work, available from: If you use the code, please quote the following paper (code description available in Appendix): ek et al. (2009) For recent updates, see also: Aird et al. 2017 (attachment explains the average over templates and minimum age depending on redshift) Aird et al. 2018 (attachment describing the installation of two components for AGN +galaxy) Please also quote these papers if you use these features. Any questions and comments are welcome, but please check the documentation in the parameters file and the FAQ page. Finally, please always check the output file. Is the look fit okay? Is redshift output indeed similar to redshift input, etc. Although we tested FAST exhausted, there may still be bugs. Please email if you find anything or would like to contribute to the project. Note that fast usage is at your own risk! Skatteministeriet har sendt et til udkast til lovforslag i høring. Hvis udkastet fremsættes og vedtages i Folketinget i den form foreliggende, vil der blive ændret i reglerne for, hvornår der foreligger quick drift. Læs only om udkastet nedenfor, som har høringsfrist den 10. oktober 2019. Det må antages, on et lovforslag fremsættes inden jul, man det vil comedy lovkatalog ved Folketingets åbning vise. I udkastet til lovforslaget fremgår en ny definition af quickly drift. Det foreslås, in der indføres en såkaldt anti-debris rules i dansk ret. Dette betyder, in accomplices, der hver to sig kan anes som forberedende og hjælpende - og derfor ikke ville udgøre quickly drift – i nogle tilfælde kan anses for udgøre et hanyut when activating samsne. In addition, the bill includes an extension of the agent rule. So far, it has The point of departure, that when there is no fixed place, the activity of afhængig also can usually only provide a permanent establishment, if the agent can amend on behalf of the interior. In 2013, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security released a list of 1,000 people who were barred from the party's role in 2016-18: The definition of a permanent establishment bill by definition, as evidenced by the 2017 OECD model agreement. The proposed provisions are also in line with the formulation of a permanent establishment preparation, where evidence of multi-way instruments, which have also been adopted by Denmark. Therefore, the new Internal Danish rules take a real first impression, when they land, in which Denmark has signed multiple tax treaties, has signed the same provisions of permanent establishments through multi-way instruments or through individual negotiation agreements. For the land, where Denmark does not have multiple tax treaties, such as Frankrig or Spain, the new definition in the Danish ret will have an impact with implementation - that is, on January 1, 2020. Most of the companies and traders operating in Norway are responsible for Norway. If a company or resident trader in a country in which Norway has signed a tax agreement, Norwegian tax liability depends on business income from business activities operated through permanent establishment in Norway. A fixed establishment means that a company or merchant must have a permanent business place where they do business entirely or partially. Businesses must also be enforced for sufficient periods. Examples of fixed business locations are: places for the management of factory construction office branches and installation business construction and installation projects, and businesses related to such projects, are fixed establishments if the project or business lasts for more than 12 months. In some tax agreements, the time requirement is 6 months. Additional activities In the tax agreement, exceptions are usually made that the so-called additional activities cannot be a permanent organization. An example is the premise that is used exclusively for stock or exhibition of goods. Permanent Establishment agents can also be created through a person who is not an independent intermediary. It is possible if the person acts on behalf of the undertaking and if the person has, and usually exercises, the power to contract on behalf of the undertaking. The continental shelves of the Norwegian continent are subject to a special tax regime. Tax deduction cards and tax deductions In most Norwegian tax agreements have signed up with other states, special provisions on tax liabilities have been related income on the Norwegian continental shelf. There are usually separate provisions regarding tax liability for activities at ncs. In accordance with this provision, the permanent establishment usually operates that together in excess of 30 days within twelve months. Tax deduction cards and tax deductions if there is no tax agreement, or when a tax agreement does not cover Ncs, Norwegian tax liability applies to the Petroleum Tax Act.
