Akira starred in more than 505 adult films as of May 2016. In 2013, she became the third Asian artist (after Asia Carrera and Stephanie Swift) to receive the AVN Award for Artist of the Year. Akira is a two-time host of the Pornhub Awards, hosting the 1st and 2nd ceremonies. Akira's early life was born in Manhattan, New York, the only child of Japanese immigrant parents. She lived in Soho and moved to Tokyo at the age of nine when her father, a portrait photographer, was transferred there for work. She returned to the United States at the age of 13 and moved to downtown Brooklyn and then Clinton Hill. In a 2014 interview, she described her childhood as perfectly normal. Her family spoke Japanese at home and had health nuts that avoided junk food. As a teenager, Akira worked as a cashier at the children's bookstore Books of Miracles. Akira was able to obtain a scholarship to study at the United Nations International School in Manhattan because her grandfather was a Japanese diplomat for 45 years. She wasn't invited to return to her sophomore year because of her poor grades, so she enrolled at Washington Irving High School in Gramerey Park. She transferred to City-As-School for her senior year. Akira's career began in 2009 as a dominatrix when she was 19 years old. She later worked as a stripper at the Hustler Club in New York. In 2006-2007 she was a regular on the radio show Bubba the Love Sponge and was known as Show. She met actress Gina Lynn on the show and she she her work. Her first scene with a boy girl was with Travis Knight for Gina Lynn Productions, after she had already done several scenes for the girls, mostly with Lynn. She then signed with Vouyer Media and became a freelancer six months later. Asa is her real name, which means morning in Japanese, and the surname in her stage name was taken from the anime film Akira. Akira received several nominations for her role in David Aaron Clarke's 2009 film Pure, in which she plays a telephone player in a fetish dungeon who is having an affair with the landlady's husband. Akira co-hosted the 30th annual AVN Awards with actress Jesse Jane and comedian April Macy. That night, she received the AVN Artist of the Year Award. She was also the most decorated person during the ceremony. In 2013, she made her director debut in Gangbanged 6's Elegant Angel. On October 9, 2013, Akira announced that she had signed an exclusive contract with Wicked Pictures. Her debut film as a contract artist for the company was Asa Is Wicked. Akira's main performances were starring in the main Starlet film. In January 2014, Akira, Dana DeArmond, Chanel Preston and Jesse Andrews were featured in a Cosmopolitan magazine article titled 4 Stars On How They Stay In Shape. The article was inspired by a comment by actress Gabrielle Union made on talk show Conan O'Brien about the desire to follow the fitness regimes of stars that she saw in her gym. In 2017, Akira appeared in a live-action segment on Family Guy's Emmy-Winning Episode. In 2011, the Complex placed Akira in fourth place in the list of 100 hottest stars right now and in sixth place in the list of Top 50 hottest Asian stars of all time. LA Weekly came third on the list of 10 innovative stars who could be the next Sasha Gray in 2013. It was also included in CNBC's annual Dirty Dozen list, an annual ranking of the industry's most popular and successful adult stars in 2012, 2013 and 2014. In 2013, Akira and artist David Cho started a 90-minute podcast called DVDASA. It is designed for a young adult audience, with the aim of helping young people with their problems related to sexuality, career, relationships, etc. In June 2014, Akira appeared on a YouTube video with vlogger Caspar Lee. Akira wrote a memoir called Insatiable: Porn-A Love Story, which was released in May 2014 by Grove Press. In July 2015, she signed with Cleis Press to publish her second book, Dirty Thirty: A Memoir, a collection of essays that was released in the fall of 2016. [31] [32] 2015 Akira Akira Belle Knox as the host of The Sex Factor, an upcoming reality show where eight men and eight women compete for a $1 million prize and a three-year contract. On April 6, 2015, The Hundreds began releasing episodes for a series called Hobbies with Asa Akira, in which Akira tried out various activities such as tattooing, boxing, taidermery and ice sculpture. Akira's personal life claims that she sexually attracts both men and girls who look like boys. She doesn't like being called bisexual, claiming she's leaning towards heterosexuality, but still not sure. She was once engaged to pornographic actor Rocco Reed. She was also married to pornographic actor and director Tony Ribas, and she stated that in addition to their on-screen work, their relationship was monogamous. She has a son through another relationship in March 2019. Akira identifies as a feminist. Publications of Akira, Asa (2014). Insatiable: Love Story. Grove Press. ISBN 0802122590. Akira, Asa (2016).
