Copyright © 2020 InfoSpace Holdings, LLC, System1 Company Image: Yuri_Arcurs/E+/Getty Images There are too many branches of knowledge that can all be listed, and knowledge is in all forms and forms. The doctor may be knowledgeable in neurosurgery, and the farmer may be knowledgeable in weather patterns. Chimpanzees may know the most effective way to peel a banana, and an engineer can know the most effective way to build a bridge. There are only so many things to learn that it is impossible to learn them all. Very few people learn the square roots of 289, the Australian capital, the location of the Northern Star, the deepest place on Earth and the weight of Manhattan all at the same time. Very few people learn such different knowledge at different times. And that's why it's impossible to know everything. Fortunately, this quiz is just almost impossible. If you dig deep and try to remember everything you've ever learned in this history of your learning, you may be able to get every question right in this quiz. You have to direct your social studies classes from years on and combine them with common sense street smarts you will learn today to get these issues right, but it can be done. Do you think you can do this? Put your skills to the test and try to answer these almost impossible knowledge questions.
