The Klim Type Foundry typeface is a typeface designed by Milton Glaser and Klim Glaser that is a tribute to the Futura typeface by Hermann Zapf The Type Foundry is a typeface that embodies the signature style of Milton Glaser, the advertising art director who co-created the font with his brother, Klim Glaser. [PDF / EPUB] Klim Type Foundry : The (Beethoven type) music you've been looking for! One of the best-selling fonts for music. A “tribute” to the Futura typeface, Klim Type Foundry, by Hermann Zapf, is a sophisticated sans-serif with an emphasis on verticality. Advertised as a “typeface for composers, musicians, and filmmakers,” the typeface has become the “best-selling font for music.” The Futura typeface was not meant for the ad industry; instead, Hermann Zapf designed it for two of his long-time clients, the Beethoven Geburtstagsbuch Society (the Beethoven Birthday Book Society) and the American National Bank. For Zapf, the Futura typeface evoked the concept of “tameness.” This “tame” idea was widely shared by the American mass culture of the 1950s.
