Copyright/OSL statement. What are written exams?IV. Questions and answersv. SubmissionVI. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONSVII. Version History CreditsI. Introductions, yes, my first FAQ here. Ive been meaning to write one for quite some time, but Ive been busy and lazy. Finally Ive written one, enjoy. Now, a little (and I mean a little) about me. Call me LDADragon. My real name, age, gender and all other personal information is my business, not yours, as long as I don't feel close enough to share it with you. I play a lot of games, but myfavorites are RPG and card games.II. Copyright/DisclaimerThis FAQ is intended for public use on the Internet. Basically you can't do anything with this FAQ (except read and digest the information) without my permission. Besides, I don't own a Yu-Gi-Oh GX or any of the characters (although I wish I did). I own a copy of this game however. III. What are written exams? Written examinations are given about once a month on the day of the exam in the morning. It's the first thing you do. You will receive 10 random questions with a selection of answers that will ask about the cards, their use and their different abilities. You get ten points for each correct answer and zero points for error. The maximum score is 100 points, the minimum is 0. You have some time to answer the question. When your time runs out, you don't have to receive zaqueste points. Whether you're right or wringing when you answer, you'll continue to pakext the question (no second guess). Questions are asked randomly! You can restore the game to an infinite number of times and you will probably never get the same 10 questions. I have no idea how many questions there are, but I'm trying to get them all. Please also note that for questions, even if you get the same question, the answer may not be in the same position. One day it may be the third option, another time the first. Watch what you're doing and don't assume that just because the answer to the question was on the left side last time, it'll be there next time. Please also note that there are some questions where you may be asked the same question, but you will have different options for answers. Be on the lookout! Questions and answersAll questions are in alphabetical order according to the first word. The questions are organized by the first letter of the first word, so the question containing that would be in W QUESTIONS. If the question you need is not listed, please email me at the address listed at the top of this FAQ squeste and I will include it in my next review with credit to you. The format for all questions and answers is as follows:1-This line is the question you asked.2-This line list of options for answering the question3-This line gives the correct answerPo Destiny Board activates which card you play first due to itseffect?
