My singing monsters breeding chart p

This is the main article for breeding. For the category, see Category:Breeding. My Singing MonstersDawn Fire This page is a quick link to breeding new monsters! Please note: Visit the Breeding Structures page to discuss which combination is the best. When choosing monsters of the breed does not matter which monster is on the left or right column. Star and points out there are several combinations for breeding the desired monster. When breeding, choose a combination (if more than one) that will take the least amount of time. For example, Entbrat and T-Rox is a better choice for Gazt than Entbrat and Clamble. This is because Clamble takes longer. The less time you have to wait, the more often you can constantly try to breed the desired monster. Visit the Breeding page to increase breeding time at the Advanced Breeding Structure and the Advanced Nursery of Rare Monsters have the same breeding combinations (s) and element (s) as their natural counterparts, but are less common than their natural counterparts (the exception is one element of natural rare that must be bred using a triple element of monsters that both possess their respective element). Check your inbox often to see if there are any Rares breeding stocks. Epic monsters have a very specific breeding combination for each island they are on. They don't have the same breeding combinations as their common or rare counterparts, and it's not the same breeding combination for each island, so it's worth checking out a specific island on the table below to breed a combo of a certain epic monster before breeding it. Check your inbox often to see if there are any breeding stocks for Epics. Having your wishing Torches lit increases the chances of a successful breeding attempt. Raising the level of parent monsters increases the chances of a successful breeding attempt to at least level 15.
