It allows users to edit the machining paths and perform post-processing operations. The two-axis edition of EFICN SW provides up to eight milling axes. The four-axis edition provides up to 12 machining axes (5 and 4-axis machining). EFICN can be used to machine surfaces, mill, drill, and tap holes. It is also an add-on to EFIC for 3-axis turning. EFICN SW is written in Python and C++. The EFICN SW application has been released under the GPL. EFICN SW has been certified in the ISO TC251 standard (ISO/IEC 17025:2005) References ISO/IEC 17025:2005 DIN EN ISO 15711:2007:2008, American National Standard for Electronic Design Control of Precision Machining of Components by Computerized NC-Programs - Numerical control (CNC) for the automation of automatic machining by means of automated tool handling in numerical control systems ISO/IEC 17025:2005 (E) Electronic Design Control of Precision Machining of Components by Computerized NC-Programs -

Ahead of tonight's presidential debate in Denver, Romney and Obama campaigns agreed on the wording of Romney's 60-second attack ad, which will run during the Republican National Convention in August. The Obama camp agreed to a rare ad buy from the Republican, according to two people familiar with the pact. Obama's ad, which is scheduled to run in major markets including Boston and Chicago, will highlight a video clip of Obama mocking Romney for his steadfast refusal to release the certificate. "President Obama has released his birth certificate. But Mitt Romney won't. He's not ready to do it," the president says in the ad. "Mitt Romney won't even say where he 520fdb1ae7
