

"SDG's at Artevelde University College: What are we aiming for? Where are we now? And what about you?"

Interested in exchanging experiences about implementing the SDG's at your institute? Be sure to participate in this workshop. You'll learn about how at Artevelde University College a whole-institution approach has been adopted. Starting from a dream vision, based on questions like: How can we contribute to each of the seventeen goals? How can we keep a holistic view on the goals?

The session is a mutual learning moment. So share your own ideas and experiences and get to know the barriers and implementation steps at Artevelde.

THE FORCE OF POLICY

BEA MERCKX
SUSTAINABILITY ADVISOR
ARTEVELDE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE GHENT
BELGIUM

With a background as a civil engineer, a master in biology and a function as lecturer and researcher at the Artevelde University College teacher-training faculty, she knows how to combine different perspectives. Add to that her expertise in Education for Sustainable Development. Look at what she has to say about the Sustainable Development Goals: "For me, the SDG's are not only a policy framework (with its obvious limitations within the current system). In a broader sense, the SDG's can be an inspiring holistic framework, which can be used to image a sustainable future for all." Clear words.

Brings along Thomas Remerie and Eef Thoen

