

Happy Hippie Foundation Privacy Policy 2015

This Privacy Policy, effective January 16, 2015, is designed to help you, the user, understand how Happy Hippie Foundation (“us”, “we”, or “our”) collects and then uses the personal information you provide us when signing up as a new “member”. We do this so you can make informed decisions both when deciding whether to become a member and when using this service.

By accessing and/or using this web site, you are (1) becoming a member of the Happy Hippie Foundation social networking community (the “network”) and (2) accepting the practices described in this Privacy Policy.

We would like to thank you for becoming a member of the network—a network that takes each member’s privacy rights seriously. If you have any questions concerning the network’s Privacy Policy, please contact us at the mailing address, telephone number, or email address at the end of this page.

About Happy Hippie Foundation

Happy Hippie Foundation, a 501c3 nonprofit public charity, maintains and administers the network and this web site. The intent of this web site is to create a resource wherein members learn more about youth homelessness and related social issues and get involved by donating, posting on social media or participating in other online actions.

Children’s Online Privacy Protection Act Of 1998

This privacy policy is provided in conformity with the Children’s Online Privacy Protection Act of 1998 (“COPPA”). COPPA requires that we notify parents and legal guardians and obtain consent from parents and legal guardians before we collect, use and/or disclose personal information from children under thirteen (13) years of age.

If parents or legal guardians have any questions regarding their child’s use of this web site, they may contact the operator of this website at the following email address:

Correcting, Updating or Removing Your Information

At any time, members can correct, update, or remove any of their personal information by emailing info@happyhippies.org. Our team can assist them as well.

How We Use the Information

We collect the personal information listed above so that we can provide you with personalized features and an enhanced and efficient web site experience. You understand and acknowledge that copies of your User Content may remain viewable in cached and/or archived pages or if other members have copied and/or stored your User Content, even after your information has been removed.

On occasion, we may use your name and email address to send you notifications about the network's new projects, special campaigns and impact reports. Generally, you may opt out of such emails by clicking on the "unsubscribe" link in the email.
