You need about 50 minutes to do this. Rule 1 Click here to go to the official Effortless English website! Rule 2 Rule 3 Click here to check out easy English lessons for yourself! Rule 4 Rule 5 Rule 6 Rule 7 Hi, is AJ Hoge, Director of Effortless English and today is the last rule, rule number 7. And rule number 7 is very, very powerful. Rule number 7 helps you speak quickly and understand instantly, Immediately. It's true fluency, true automatic speech. So, what is rule number 7? Rule number 7, the last rule is to use a listen and meet mini stories. What are these mini-stories, listen and answer, and why are they powerful? Well, first of all, remember in the past, when you went to an English school. At school you probably learned with a lot of listening and repeating. For example, the teacher said: Repeat after me, class: hello, how are you?, and class together, all said: Hi, how are you?. Then the teacher said, I'm fine, and you?. Then, all the classes together said: I'm fine, and you?. It's listening and repeating. It's an old way of learning English. But it's not powerful. When you listen and repeat, you don't have to think in English, you don't have to think. You're just repeating what the teacher said. Maybe you don't understand, but still, you repeat. It's the old way, don't do it. Much more powerful is: listen and respond, especially listen and answer mini stories. These are special stories where the teacher asks for a story. Now, I'm not telling the story, I'm talking asks for a story. The teacher asks a lot of very simple and simple questions. Why? Well, because the student has to answer questions all the time, constantly answering. Hearing the question, answering. Hearing the question, answering. It's like a real conversation. When you use these stories to listen and respond, you will teach yourself to quickly understand and react quickly, speak very quickly and automatically. Don't think about it. That's why they're strong. You learn to think in English and learn to speak quickly without thinking, without translating. Now I'll give you a very, very simple and simple example of a mini-story of questions and answers. Just a couple of sentences. Now imagine that there is a short, small story. According to the old method, the teacher said, Repeat after me, and the teacher says, There was a boy, he went to the store, bought a bar. And then the students repeat the story: There was a boy, he went to the store, bought a bar. No. In the stories about auditions and answers the teacher asks questions, the teacher asks a lot of questions, very simple questions. We use simple questions because we don't want you to think. If I asked a difficult question, then you could stop and think, but if the question is very simple, you can shout the answer. One word, two words, okay. For example, I would say: Class, was a boy. Was there a boy? And you're screaming yes, yes. And I say: Was there a boy or was there a girl? And you immediately, instantly scream boy, boy. And I say, well, was there a boy? Again you shout: Yes, yes, there was a boy. And I say, I see there was a boy. What was his name? You don't know, so you guess, John, or Jim, anything. You shout the answer. And I said, yes, his name was John. Was John a boy or was John a girl? And you're screaming a Boy. And then I go on, more questions, more questions. And since you are constantly answering questions, you learn to think in English, you learn to answer, answer very, very quickly in English. They're very, very powerful. Now, of course, this example is very, very simple, a super-world. In my real mini-history lessons it is... it's more complicated and much more interesting, and there are a lot more questions. And when you use these mini-history lessons, you will learn to speak much faster, much easier and automatically. It's very powerful. So, your rule number 7 is absolutely very important: use a listen and answer mini-stories. Super, super important. Always do it. And of course you can find a native speaker to make these stories for you. Show them this video, and then they'll figure out how to do it. Or you can get my lessons. And, in fact, this is your next step, because now you're done. You have completed 7 rules of light English. Congratulations. Now you need to use them and you have to use all of them so that you learn much faster, so that you will understand English very quickly and so that you will speak English easily, quickly and automatically. So, what's your next move? Well, first you want to use all 7 rules. Every time you learn English use all 7 rules. One very easy way to use 7 rules is to get my easy English lessons. I did these lessons to help you learn English quickly and easily and automatically, and my lessons use all 7 rules. I created these lessons using these rules, so they are very, very powerful.
