

Downtown Nashville Urgent Care Clinic Reopens to Serve Downtown Residents, Employees and Tourists

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (March 20, 2021) – Complete Health Partners' downtown Nashville clinic at 3rd and Church reopens for patients March 29. This follows three months of extensive renovations after the bombing that occurred downtown on Christmas Day.

Patients will be treated by the same staff led by Dr. David Sparks. Visually, they'll enjoy a warmer, more inviting environment that includes new bathrooms, flooring, sheetrock, wiring and ceiling tiles.

In addition to the downtown reopening, Complete Health Partners is opening an urgent and primary care clinic in Hendersonville, Tenn., on March 29.

During the past two years, Complete Health Partners has grown from one to three clinics and provided Covid testing to more than 78,000 people.

The medical team at Complete Health Partners have also been contracted by corporations including Gibson Brands, 46 Entertainment and Martin & Zerfoss for on-site, group covid testing and back-to-work consulting. In addition, Dr. Ty Babcock, CHP's managing partner, is the contracted Medical Director over a number of ongoing film productions in the south.

"Our downtown clinic serves 2600 residents in the downtown loop and gives nearly 16 million tourists, many staying in downtown hotels, a great place to walk to, see a provider, and get back to their vacation or their work, says Jason. Boylan, FNP with Complete Health Partners and former owner of the 3rd and Church clinic."

Complete Health Partners offers Nashvillians same-day appointments, next-day test results, and a guaranteed 48-hour return telehealth call if they're not feeling better following their initial clinic visit.
