The manga and anime series Naruto (Japanese ナルト) features an extensive cast of characters created by Masashi Kishimoto. The series takes place in a fictional universe, where countries are fighting for power, using ninjas who can use superhuman abilities in battle. The storyline is divided into two parts, simply titled Part I and Part II, with the latter taking place two and a half years after Part I ends. The series' storyline tells the adventures of a group of young ninjas from the village of Konohagakure (Village hidden in a sheet). The eponymous character of the first series Naruto Uzumaki, an energetic ninja who wants to become Hokage, the leader of Konohagakure and holds in his body a monster named Nine-Tails. At the beginning of the series, Naruto is assigned to Team 7, in which he meets his rival Sasaku Uchiha, a taciturn and highly skilled genius of the Uchiha clan; Sakura Haruno, who is in love with Saks and attracts the attention of Naruto and Kakashi Hatake, the quiet and mysterious leader of the team. During the series, looking for Saks, when he escaped from the village, Naruto interacts with several other ninjas in Konohagakur and other villages. He also meets the series' antagonists, including Orochimaru, a former Ninja Konohagakure scheming to destroy his former home, and an elite ninja criminal organization Akatsuki, who are looking for jinchuriki as Gaar for tailed beasts. The eponymous character in the second series is Boruto Uzumaki, the son of Naruto and Hinata Hyga, who is assigned to the Konohamaru team, also known as Team 7, which includes Sasaku and Sakura's daughter, Sarada Uchiha, the artificially created son of Orochimaru- Mitsuki, and the band's leader, Konohagar, the grandson of the Third Hokaj, whom he is friends with. As he began the series, Kishimoto created three main characters as the basis for the designs of other three-person teams. He also used the characters in another manga with son as references in his character design, a decision that has been criticized by several anime and manga publications. The characters developed by Kishimoto, however, were praised for incorporating many of the best aspects of the previous characters, although many publications lamented lack of growth beyond such stereotypes. The visual representation of the characters was commented on by reviewers, with praise and criticism given by Kishimoto's work in manga and anime adaptations. The creation and concept. When Masashi Kishimoto originally created the Naruto series, he sought inspiration in another manga, trying to make his characters as unique as possible. Kishimoto cited Akira Toriyama's Dragon Ball series as is Ao. He is one of the Seven Swordsmen of The Tuman carrying the sword of Hiramekarei (ヒメカレ), but after the fact that The Mamochi and Kisame Hoshigaki have been killed, he becomes the only real one left of the Mechniks; in addition, he is the only one associated with the village at the beginning of the series. Chojuoro often annoys Ao because he stutters and seems to lack self-confidence. After escorting Mizukaga to the Kaga Summit, he helps her guard shinobi's daiymo, and is able to gain enough self-confidence to help Naruto defeat the Black Zetsu. Later it becomes the Sixth Mizukage (六代目水影, Rokudaime Mizukage) sometime after the war. In the Japanese anime he is voiced by Cookie Miata, while Brian Beacock provides his voice in the English adaptation. Ao (音) is one of Mei Terumi's bodyguards. He is a middle-aged japan who wears an eyepatch on his right eye, the Byakgan he purchased from Hyuga's main home, and often critical of Chejoro's indecision due to his upbringing during Hidden Mist Village's Bloody Fog days. When Minato invites Danzo Shimura to lead an inter-powder effort against Akatsuki, Ao shows his Biakgan to confirm that Danzo's eye and hand belonged to Shisui Uchiha, with whom he fought and knew of Uchiha's ability to secretly manipulate others. Ao then follows the Danzo group as they run during Taka's attack, only to be rescued from Mei and Chojuor when he fell into a trap that Danzo's men had set up in an attempt to recapture him. Ao serves in Allied Shinobi as Captain Thek the Division, stationed at the Shinobi Alliance headquarters in Kumogakura, narrowly survived after destroying their base. As it later emerged, survived in Boruto: Naruto's next generation, his body supplemented by Shinobi-Ware prostheses that include Type-3 Shinobi Gauntlet to replace his left forearm, the elder Ao became a sleeping agent for Cara. He joined the Konohamaru and Katsasuke group, using the latter's inventions to kill his assistant, injuring Konohamaru. Revenge-driven Boruto manages to outsmart and overpower Ao, saving a man's life as Ao ends up sacrificing himself to save Boruto from the crushed kashin Koji boiler toad. It is voiced by Tadahisa Saizen in a Japanese anime, while Stephen Blum voices it in an English adaptation. Gensetsu Hozuki Gensetsu Hozuki (兎灯幻月, Yuzukui Gensetsu) is the second Mizukage (二代目水影, Nidaim Mizukage) Kirigakure. A very tall mustachioed man with big poufch hair, a curious way of dressing and no eyebrows, he was a calm and very charismatic leader, concerned about the well-being of his village. 546 He hated the Second Tsuchikage, and their final confrontation with (each other) led to their mutual death. Ch. 525 Gensetsu comes back to life by resurrecting Kabuto to confront the Shinobi Alliance in the Fourth Ninja War. Like other members of the Hozuki clan, he mastered the technique of hydro-processing, which manifests itself as oily, water-like substance. Ch 548 He is voiced by Hideyuki Umedzu in a Japanese anime, while Jamieson Price voices it in an English adaptation. Iwagakure Onoki (オオノキ, onoki) was the Third Tsuchikage (三代目土影, Sandaim Tsuchikage) Iwagakura, grandson of the First Tsuchikaga Ishikawa and protege of his predecessor Mu with the longest reign as Kage, which allowed him to meet in person with figures who had long since died in the present, including Madaruchū. Ch. 469 He possesses a particle style, the kekkei, which combines elements of Fire, Earth and Wind to create three-dimensional shapes capable of disintegrating everything he touches, as well as the ability to change gravity, allowing it to work. He is very proud, despite his weakness, and does not show much respect for those who are much younger than him. During the Keig Summit, he admitted that he often hired Akatsuki. Ch. 458 C. 459 While Onoki justifies hiring Akatsuki as needed to protect his village during its demilitarization, both his advanced age have kept him from being named leader of the Shinobi Alliance, although Sauke's invasion and Gaven's behavior will force Onoki to reclaim some of the nobler traits from his youth. Later, he goes to search for Kabuto and prevents him from finding the killer bee and Naruto and manages to protect them. Throughout the war, Onoki's methods played an important role in Alliance members are alive, and he becomes the actual leader in attacking the real Madaru Uchiha. Years later, Onoki retires due to ill health and transfers his title to his granddaughter Kurotsuchi. In the Boruto series, after attacking his rogue ninja village a decade after the fourth Great Ninja War that led to the life of his grandson Kozuchi, Onoki began to develop Akut as a defense force to keep people safe and unscathed. He continued to improve the process after receiving the remains of the White Zetsu, improving Akut, while creating Fabrications, such as his partial clone son Ke, when he organized Mitsuki's abduction to improve the process. But after seeing the extent to which Fabrications will go to see its ideals realized, Onoki helps Boruto stop artificial people at the cost of their lives. Onoki is voiced by Tomomichi Nishimura in the Japanese anime and Stephen Blum in the English adaptation. Kurotsuti Kurotsuchi (黒ツ子) is onokia's granddaughter and bodyguard during the Kaga summit. She is a Kunochi who is very supportive of the interests of her village, even once advising Onokia to kill Naruto and the killer bee, so as not to see them get into Akatsuki. She also knew Deidara before he fled to Akatsuki. Kurotsuchi participates in the Fourth Ninja War, serving in the Second Division under the leadership of his father, Kitsuchi. She survives the war and becomes the Fourth Teach (四代目土影, Yondaime Tsuchikage) on an epilogue series, replacing her sick grandfather. It is voiced by Hana Takeda in the Japanese anime and Laura Bailey in the English adaptation, as well as voiced by Cherami Lee in Boruto: Naruto Next Generations. Akatsuti Akatsuti (赤ツ子) is one of Onoki's bodyguards accompanying him to the Kage summit. He is a pre-dov and cheerful man who, nevertheless, is loyal and devoted to his master. Despite its large size, it moves fast and succeeds in Earth Style, using it to form goles. Like Kurotsuchi, he was a friend of Deidara before he fled to Akatsuki. Akatsuti participates and survives the Fourth Ninja War, continuing to serve as Tsuchikage's personal bodyguard in Kurotsuchi's rule. It is voiced by Kenta Miake in Japanese and Kyle Hebert in English. Kurama Kurama (九喇嘛), often called Nine Tails (九尾妖狐, Kubi no Jaco, illuminated. Used by Madara in his attempt to destroy Konohagakure during its founding, Kurama was defeated and sealed to Hashirama's wife and then transferred to Kushina Uzumaki two generations later. Under Obito's scheme, Kurama is released and attacks Konohagakure before being stopped by the Fourth Hokage Minato Namikace, who seals half of Yin's fox inside himself. Minato and Kushina then sacrifice themselves to seal the weakened Kurama's son, Naruto Uzumaki, twelve years before the series began. CH 1 (h. 500) Throughout the series, Naruto tries to use Kurama's huge chakra to perform a few jutsus, which are usually impossible for the shinobi of his age. Ch. 95 No Naruto son learns that too much reliance on kurama power will allow the fox to impose its power on the master to the point of destruction of the seal. Naruto eventually takes control of the fox's chakra with The Kushina's fingerprint. Ch. 499 During Naruto's battle against Obito, seeing the master's determination to save the other tailed beasts, Kurama befriended Naruto, allowing him to reach the Tailed Beast regime. Ch. 571 Eventually, when Kurama is removed from Naruto, the Tailed Beast tells Haare how to save Naruto's life by passing Yin Kurama from Minato to Naruto. Kurama later returns to Jinchūri's body and becomes unharmed when he reunites with his Yin colleague. Kishimoto was mostly inspired to create Kurama based on a character of the same name from the manga Yu'ü Hakusho. The inclusion of the fox spirit was also inspired by Godzilla. In the Japanese anime, The voice of Kurama is Tessa Genda, and in the English adaptation it is voiced by Paul St. Peter. Taka Taka (鷹), originally named Hebi (蛇), is a shinobi group formed by Saku, formed by Saku, originally to search for and kill Itachi Uchiha, but later allied with Akatsuki to destroy Konohagakure. Ch. 352 Each of them was forcibly accepted by Orochimaru and forced to serve under his leadership as Otogakure Shinobi, together with Sack, ultimately seeking redemption by allying with Sack. The group disintegrates after attempting to terrorize the Summit of the Five Cages, but they later reunite as part of the Shinobi Allied Forces. After the war, they returned to Otogakura with Orochimaru. Suigetsu Hozuki Suigetsu Hozuki (兎灯水月, Hozuki Suigetsu) is the first member to join him. Originally from Kirigakure, his goal is to claim all the swords owned by the Seven Swordsmen of Tuman, and from there to reform the organization in memory of his late brother Mangetz, who himself was a member. Although his dream was initially interrupted by Orochimaru, after Sauke freed him, he managed to claim the sword of zabuzō, but lost it while fighting Kage, but lost it while fighting Kage. Suigetsu is usually a sadistic personality, constantly fascinating about cutting things and therefore getting on Karin's nerves, but sees herself as normal compared to most other people. His clan has the ability to turn any part of his body into water, but must remain dehydrated to do so. Suigetsu is voiced by Takashi Kondo in Japanese and Grant George in English dub, with the exception of Rock Lee and his Ninja Pals, where he is voiced by Todd Haberkorn. Karin Karin (香磷) is the second member of Taka and a member of Uzumaki that Naruto belongs. She was originally from Kusagakure and then another unnamed village, but after the latter was destroyed, she was taken by Orochimaru, eventually becoming a faithful servant to him. After a brief meeting with Sauk during the Chuninjury exam, she became addicted to him and decided to join Taka to be by his side. Ch. 482 Karin was seriously wounded by Saskou during the battle against Danzo, and after he left her behind, Karin was arrested by Kakashi, in turn, meeting Naruto for the first time. She later met with Sauk to confront him, but instead immediately forgave him. Some time after that, she moved from Sauke, wishing that he was happy, and helped defend Sauk and Sakura's daughter, Sarada. Karin is a type of sensor that can feel the other person's chakra and feel their aura in this way, such as seeing the Naruto chakra as bright and warm. It can also help people if they bite it, which causes them to absorb the chakra, leaving permanent marks throughout the body, but because of the risks involved it can only use it once a day. In Japanese, Karin is voiced by Kanako Toju until Episode 485, when Toa Yukinari takes over. In English, she is voiced by Ali Hillis, with the exception of Rock Lee and his Ninja Pals, where she is voiced by Michelle Ruff. Jugo Jugo (蘆苈, Iago) is the third member of the Taka. His clan has the ability to use senjutsu, but because of the large amount of natural energy they absorb they are prone to bouts of extreme violence, with additional side effects in that they can return to childhood form if they use it incorrectly. Because of this, as a child, Jugo was an outsy, eventually finding solace in Kimimaro, whom he saw as an older brother. After meeting Sauk, he tried to refuse to participate in Take and used his abilities, but Sauk managed to calm him down. Because Kimimaro was the only person who could do this, Jugo decided to follow Sauk, believing that he was the reincarnation of Kimimaro. C. 414 Jugo is voiced by Shuei Sakaguchi in Japanese and Travis Willingham in the English dub except in Lee Rock and his Ninja buddies, where he is voiced by Patrick Seitz and also voiced by Kyle Hebert in Boruto: Naruto next generations. Danzo Shimura Danzo Shimura (志村 ダウツ, Shimura Danzo) is one of the oldest villagers in Konohagakure, and a moderately cantankerous war hawk who was a rival to Hiruzen, whom he therefore opposes along with other Hokage to place world peace above the interests of his village. Ch. 285 When Hiruzen was named Third Hokage, Danzo uses the Foundation and his personal black operation Tō to secretly control the security of his village along with his personal goal of becoming Hokage. Ch. 298 This led to Danzo becoming responsible for which included Kabuto's escape and the organization of the Uchiha massacre. The last event leads to the fact that he Shisui Uchiha's transplanted right eye, which he killed, along with using Sheen's genetic makeup to transplant Danzo's right hand by sharing his eyes and Hashirama cells. After the attack of the devastating Konohagakure Plan, Danzo took advantage of Tsunade's coma in persuading the feudal lord of the country's fire to make him acting candidate of the Sixth Hokage (六代目火影候補, Rokudaime Hokage Kaho) and used his position to decree Sank of wanted criminals before reaching the five Kage summit to convince the formation of Shinobi's alliance with himself as its leader. But the plan fails as Danzo ends up being fatally wounded after forcing Sasuke to fight, using the last of his strength in an attempt to seal jutsu on his killer and Obito. Ch. 481 Although Jutsu failed, Danzo destroyed Shisui so that he would not receive it. After the death of the Danzo Foundation was dissolved after the Fourth Great Ninja War, and its members were allowed to live in peace, integrating back into society. In the Japanese anime it is voiced by Hiroshi Ito, and in the English version it is voiced by William Frederick Knight, with the exception of Rock Lee and his ninja buddies, where he is voiced by Richard Epcar. Rin Nohara Rin Nohara (ほろり Nohara Rin) is a member of Minato's team and teammate Kakashi Hatake and Obito Uchiha, appearing only in person during the act of Kakashi Hayden. When Minato's team sets out to sabotage the Cannabi Bridge during the Third Great Ninja War, Rin is kidnapped by the ninja Iwagakure before the rescue operation ends with Obito's apparent death. Ch. 241, 243 Some time later Rin is captured by the ninja Kirigakure and made in Jinchūri Izobu as part of the scheme of the Trojan horse to destroy Konoha. Rin implemented this scheme, being rescued and jumped in the path of the Kakashi Lightning Blade to save the village at the cost of her life, which, as it turned out later, was organized by Madara to break the spirit of Obito. Ch. 604, 630 Obito later learns after his death that Rin's spirit has always been waiting for him, and later directs him to the other side after he metaphysically helps Kakashi for the last time in his team's battle against Kagui. In the Japanese anime, the voice of actress Stephanie Sheeh. Kushina Uzumaki Kusina Uzumaki (うずまき クシナ, Uzumaki Kushina) is the mother of the show's main character Naruto Uzumaki and wife of the fourth Hokage Minato Namikase. Ch. 352 She is the master of Kurama, just before Naruto. Ch. 499 While Naruto physically resembles his father, Minato, he inherits most of his personality from Kushina, who is brash, loves ramen, and even has a believe! (たってば, dattebane) is a verbal tick that both her son and grandson inherit. As a member of the Uzumaki clan, Kushina has a special chakra that differed even among her peers, and as a result she was sent from her homeland to Konohagakure to be the master of Kurama, replacing Mito Uzumaki. In Konohagakure, Kushina met Minato, who became Kushina's love after saving her from her abductor, leading to their marriage. Ch. 498 During pregnancy, she had to set a secretive place during childbirth to prevent the seal of Kurama from being broken. However, the place was conquered by Obito Uchiha, and he freed Kurama, who ran rampant on Konoch. Ch. 501 She and Minato sacrifice their lives to seal Kurama in Naruto after the tailed beast weakened from the loss of the yin-chakra, and placed part of his chakra to their son as denial-safe if he broke the seal. Ch. 503 In the second part of the Chakra Kushina appears during naruto's subconscious battle with Kurama, helping his son seal the fox and tell him the truth about Kurama's attack sixteen years ago. Ch 497 Before disappearing she thanks Naruto for forgive her all the ordeal when she sealed Kurama. Ch. 504 In the Japanese anime, Kushin is voiced by Amy Shinohara. She was voiced by Cindy Robinson in the English version before Laura Bailey took over the role with episode 246 and beyond. Shisui Uchiha Shisui Uchiha (うちは シスイ, Uchiha Shisui), known as Shisui twinkle one of (眼身シ, Shunshin no Shisui), was one of the most talented of the Uchiha clan and itachi's best friend. Shisui possessed a unique Mangeki Sharingan that allowed him to use the ability of Kotoamatsukami, allowing him to manipulate others without their knowledge. Shisui intended to use Kotoamatsuka to stop Uchiha's coup when Danzo stole one of his eyes, giving another eye to Itachi to protect the village to his place as he commits suicide and then found on the Uchiha River by military police officers and suggesting Shisui was killed by Itachi. Danzo transplanted his eye so he could manipulate others such as Mifune to achieve his goals and then destroy him in the final minutes to prevent Toby from taking him. The eye given by Itachi, on the other hand, is placed in one of his crows and is designed to be used against Sank as a means to stop him from attacking the village. But the resuscitated Itachi is forced to use it on himself to break out of control Kabuto, quickly destroying the eye to prevent it falling into the wrong hands. His voice is an actor in the Japanese anime Hidegenbu Kiuti, while his voice is an actor in the English adaptation of Nicolas Roy. Kawaki Kawaki (カワキ, Kawaki) is a tattooed young man who became a member of Kara after Jigen was brought in father, carrying a tattoo of Roman number IX under his left eye and bestowed a sign by Kama Jigen to be made into a living weapon for Cara. He was heavily modified with the microscopic Shinobi-Ware implanted in his body, which give him abilities similar to The Sage's transformation of Jugo in changing his physiology at the cellular level. For reasons that have not yet been disclosed, Kawaki left Kara and confronted Boruto, who leads him to Hidden Leaf when he lives with the Uzumaki family. The two would eventually become enemies, as hinted in the prologue of the Boruto series, the older Kawaki appears to have committed Konoha's destruction as he faces the elder Boruto, announcing the age of shinobi has come to an end. The reception of Naruto's characters received both praise and criticism from publications devoted to anime, manga and other media. Active Anime praised the characters for not being simple cardboard characters because of their concrete personalities and core dramatic motifs, and praised the deeply thought emotional challenges they undergo during the series. Adam Cook of Anime Boredom agreed with this assessment, extolling the characters as well rounded and creative, and noted how the characters allowed the series to successfully incorporate comedy, action and drama together in a believable manner. Christina Ross of T.H.E.M. Anime Reviews disagreed, dismissing the characters as echoes of stereotypical characters, and noted that some of the characters were not likeable. A second review from Derrick Tucker, also from T.H.E.M. Anime Reviews, gave a more positive view, commenting that Naruto Uzumaki combined the subtler values of his male predecessors, but lamented that the characters' personalities tended to fall between Naruto's charisma and coolness and Sank's softness. Justin Rich, of entertainment website Mania, claimed that the series lacked enormous depth in its characters or most washed backgrounds seen in other series of the suns, and believed that the main force of the series was fighting. In the anime and manga, Neo magazine described Naruto's character as horrible, but explained the almost sickening habituation to the level of the show's performance. Visual performances by anime and manga characters have also received notification from reviewers. Carl Kilmington of Anime News Network praised the characters for their distinctive clothing, hair, faces and personalities that made them easy to identify, as well as Kisimoto's clear eye for geography, movement and human form and impeccable visual time. Tucker, on the other hand, described Kishimoto as the average artist at best and ridiculed the poor shift in his artistic style. Animation. Despite this, he admitted that when the animators were at their best, they released artistic visualizations that leave little to be desired by manga fans but eventually concluded that the animation was a mixed bag.
