PC LINK Full Package Developer Site | Permalink I'm sure many of us remember the good ol' PSP-disp (a program that allows the use of Playstation Portable as an additional monitor in Windows), and I'm sure there's many who hoped for the VITA equivalent after henkaku made its way. Well, look no further for developers arkanite has made a public version of its beautiful homebrew, PC Link. This homebrew has also been released as a Christmas present for the VITA homebrew community, so thanks to Arkanite!. What is PC Link? PC Link is a homebrew for PS Vita that streams and checks content from your computer to VITA. Your VITA is basically treated like another monitor in this case. Keep in mind that the program is still in beta stages, so some things may not work. PC Link - Streaming Win-10 desktop!m moving PC Link to Open Beta for everyone to play with during the holiday break. There is still a lot of work to do, including fixing audio support, but enough has been done to get some fun. Now that I'm done with the work of the year (great sigh of relief), I'll be focusing on PC Link a lot more over the holidays, as well as a new project that I'll be talking about more in a separate post. Arkanite.How to set it up? First, download the latest public report here. Unzip the archive, and copy via pclick.vpk from the Vita application folder to your PS Vita.Install.vpk, and run the PC Link application on your PS Vita.Now enter the streamer folder on your PC, and run the Pclick.exe (32/64 bit) file depending on your system. Be sure to hit allow access if you are asked to. On your PS Vita, select Connection Manager and tap the + button in the upper-right corner. Type a name for the label, and then type the IP address of your computer. (How to find your IP address) This is a fantastic addition to the homebrew community, and I can only see it getting better with each release. I highly recommend it to anyone who's tried it and loved it to support Arkanite by being a patron. He has done a lot for the community, he is also a co-developer of the VITA homebrew browser, and the main developer behind the PSP Homebrew browser. On top of this, he's also working on the Day-Z equivalent of a homebrew game for VITA, so stay tuned!
