6.30pm - 8.30pm Watch the movie that introduced us to the Brat Pack. We'll Show The Outsiders (1983), a film based on the popular novel by S. E. Hinton. A teenage gang in rural Oklahoma, Greasers are constantly at odds with a social, rival group. When The Ponyboy Greasers (C. Thomas Howell) and Johnny (Ralph Macchio) get into a fight that ends in the death of a social member, the boys are forced to go into hiding. Soon Ponyboy and Johnny, along with intense Dallas (Matt Dillon) and their other friends Greaser, must grapple with the consequences of their violent lives. While some greasers are trying to achieve redemption, others meet tragic goals. This film is intended for adults and mature teenagers. Children under the age of 13 can only attend classes accompanied by an adult. This program is free, and movie go can bring their own snacks and covered soft drinks. Fourteen-year-old Ponyboy Curtis is the youngest of three orphaned brothers who live on the north side of the city, the wrong side of the tracks. Sensitive Ponyboy used to have a good relationship with his older brother Darrel, but since Darrel became a household caregiver, he was always at the Ponyboy event. Caught in the middle of the third brother of Sodapop, who dropped out of school to work full time. They all belong to the Greasers, a gang of boys on the north side also from working class families, often broken. Ponyboy's main concern is that any problem they may face, especially in their Greaser activities, will result in the authorities dividing their family. He also believes that Darrell would have outgrown them and would have become something in his life, if not for his loyalty to the gang, and the need to take care of the family. The rest of the world sees The Greasers as yet, the face of Dallas Winston, the most unstable one who has just been released...
