Hello guys! This is a serif-type family of 72 Fontfabric fonts. Introducing the Noah Font family. Noah is more than just another geometric without. With sharp details and distinctive location, it further expands the boundaries of x-height, providing unprecedented flexibility. The specific structure is paired with normal width proportions, moderate contrast and vertical stress - which makes Noah well-suited for a wide range of typographical purposes. This type of family consists of 72 fonts divided into four sub-families with different x-heights - ranging from Noah Grotesque at the bottom, through Noah and Noah Text, and extends to the highest - Noah's Head. The entire set includes styles from thin to black, with an appropriate true foundry and supports advanced Latin and Cyrillic scripts in more than 130 languages. It's a demo. Noah is free for personal use, please visit his store for more other products, and purchase fonts to support him. He lay on the armor like a back, and if he raised his head a little he could see his brown belly, slightly domed and separated by arches into tight sections. The bedding was hardly able to cover it and seemed ready to slip off at any moment. His numerous legs, pitifully thin compared to the size of the rest of him, waved helplessly as he looked. What happened to me? I thought. It wasn't a dream. His room, a proper human room, though too small, lay peacefully between the four familiar walls. A collection of textile samples lay on the table - Samsa was a salesman - and above it hung a painting that he had recently cut from an illustrated magazine and placed in a beautiful, gilded frame. It showed a lady wearing a fur hat and fur boa constrictor, sitting upright lifting up the heavy fur clutch that covered her entire lower hand to the viewer. Gregor then turned to look out the window at the overcast weather.
