Greek schools of Alexandria) to the great treatise of Ptolemy, Mathematiké syntaxis, in contradistinction to the elementary works studied before it.

almagra va. Sp. almagra, almagre, a. Arab. al-maghrāh red ochre.

almanac \Appears in med.L. as almanac(h) in end of 13th c., and soon after (though it may have been earlier) in most of the Rom. langs., It. almanacco, Sp. almanaque, Fr. almanach, the immediate source of which was app. a Spanish Arabic al-manākḥ; Pedro de Alcalá, in his Arabic-Castilian Vocabulista (1505), has 'manākḥ, almanaque, calendario'; also 'manākḥ (probably meant for same word), relox del sol' [sundial]. But the word occurs nowhere else as Arabic, has no etymon in the language, and its origin is uncertain.

almond va. OFr. almande, alemande, earlier alemandre, alemandle (also amande, amandre); cf. Sp. almendra, Pg. amendoa, It. mandorla, mandola, Pr. and med.L. amandola; pointing to early Romanic amenda, -ola, -ala, from L. amygdala, a. Gr. amygdāle...

almucantar va. Fr. almucantar or almucantar, also med.L. almi-, almucantarath; ad. Arab. almuqantar, pl. (with article) of muqantarāh (cited by Golius in sense of 'sundial'), deriv. of qantarāh, a bridge, an arch.

almury va. (ult.) Arab. al-mur'i, i.e. al the + mur'i indicator, agent-noun f. 4th form of ra'ay to see.

almuten \Corrupt for almutaz (so in OFr.) a. Arab. al-mu'taz, i.e. al the + mu'taz prevailing, f. 8th form of 'azz to be powerful.

alnath \Arab. al-nath from nāṭḥa to butt, aim at with the horns.

alpaca va. Sp. alpaca or al-paco, f. al Arab. article often prefixed to names + paco, prob. a native Peruvian name.

alphenic va. Fr. alphenic (Sp. alfenique, Pg. alfenim), according to Devic, corrupted from Arab. alfanid, i.e. al the + Pers. fanid refined sugar...

altincar va. (ult.) Arab. al-tinkar (...)

atudel va. Fr. atudel, in 13th c. alutel, ad. Arab. al-uthal (quoted by Dozy with this sense in 9th c.), i.e. al the + uthal, prob. variant of ithal pl. of athla utensil, apparatus.

Amal va. Arab. amal hope; in full Ḥarakat al-Amal Movement of Hope. Also said to represent an acronym (as unvocalized 'ml) of afwaj al-muqawama al-Lubnaniyya detachments of the resistance of the Lebanese.

amalgam va. Fr. amalgame (15th c. in Litt.), and, in the formerly common amalgama, of med.L., in which the word was in regular alchemical use in 13th c. Usually taken as a perversion of L. malagma (in Pliny and the physicians) a mollifying poultice or plaster, a. Gr. mālagma (...) an emollient; or of an Arabic adaptation of mālagma with prefixed al- (as in al-chemy, al-embic, etc.)...

amber va. Fr. ambre, cogn. w. Pr. ambre, Pr. and It. ambra, Sp. ambar, med.L. ambar, -are, -er, -ra, -rum, a. Arab. 'anbar, 'ambergis,' to which the name orig. belonged; after-wards extended, through some confusion of the substances, to the fossil resin 'amber.'...

ameer va. Arab. (Pers. and Urdu) amir commander, f. amara to tell, order, command. As a historical Saracen title commonly spelt emir; the spelling amir, ameer, is used of modern Indian and Afghan rulers.

amic lad. OFr. aumuce, aumusse (Pr. almussa, med.L. almussa, almussia, almucia, almucium, Sp. almucio, Pg. mursa, It. mozzetta dim. of mozza), of doubtful origin, but generally taken as ad. Ger. mutse, mütze, cap (Sc. mutch), with Arab. article al- prefixed, as in some other non-Arabic technical words.

amildar va. Pers. and Urdu 'amal-dar, f. Arab. 'amal work + Pers. dar holding, holder (a common agential formative).

amulet \perh. in 15th c., a. Fr. amulette; but app. not in reg. use till after 1600, when adapted from L. amuletum (Pliny), a word of unknown origin, which has been conjecturally compared with mod.Arab. himalah, -at, lit. 'a carrier, bearer,' now applied inter alia to a shoulder-belt or cord frequently used to secure a small Koran or prayer-book on the breast, regarded as an 'amulet,' but the history of this word shows that the resemblance between it and L. amuletum is purely fortuitous, and there exists no ground for ascribing the latter to an Arabic origin.

anatron va. Sp. anatron, ad. Arab. an-naṭarūn, i.e. an = al the + naṭrūn.

anil va. Fr. or Pg. anil = Sp. añil, ad. Arab. an-nīl, i.e. al the + nīl, Arab. and Pers. ad. Skr. nīlī indigo (and -plant), f. nīla dark blue.
