Vine is an origin or companion in Divinity: The Original Sin 2. The default Lohse class is Enchanter. History of origin All my life I was a performer, a musician; loved and celebrated by all. But I have a secret: I'm also a playground for sprites and spirits and ... Worse. The voice that rings inside me is darker now than any that came before. Almost caused a bunch of my fans to rip each other to pieces... But you can trust me: I have everything under control. Step one: Find out who - or what - is trying to take control of my mind. Step two: Make it a pity he's ever tried. Lohse Information You've Never Been Normal: a mind playground for demons, a body prone to violent episodes. The Divine himself could not save you, can you save yourself? The official video of Larian Studios' attention can be found here. Location If you don't choose Lohse as origin, it is located next to the shrine inside Fort Joy. Talents Special Ability To Encourage Maddening Song Lohse quest This quest is automatically acquired when playing as a Lohse. Find and talk to an elf named Sahaila in the Caves. Lohse will try to kill Saheila (regardless of subsequent persuasion checks), so you will need to step in and fight her. Note that most NPCs in the cave will attack you. However, the battle will end as soon as Sahaella dies. Almost everyone will leave the Caves if you do so though, so you won't be able to complete any quests related to NPCs here after this point, so be careful in deciding to kill Saheila. You will lose a lot of attitude (-95) with Saheila if you attack her and she can leave, so be sure to increase her attitude before or after talking to her. Also, allowing Lohse to take the damage and get low on Vitality also stop the fight. Saheila will survive and will continue to speak to Lohse using this approach. However, you will still lose the attitude with the NPC to all party members who participated in the fight, so it is recommended for your party to leave the cave except Lohse. If Vine is your companion, your character has a choice between attacking Vine or Sahayla while talking to Sahayla. The attack on sahaella leads to a fight with the rest of the NPC in the cave. But siding with Sahaila will cause Lohse to become hostile. In order to soothe her, just reduce its viability enough to trigger the next dialogue. In addition, you can leave the cave during the battle. All NPC will remain alive in the cave, and Sahaella will continue the dialogue with Lohse. In the Fort Joy holding cell, you can find a dwarf named Sillick, he invites Vine to meet his master in the north of Driftwood. Near the house in Closterwood, there is a demon hunter named Jahan, he agrees to help Vine with her situation, she will agree to help him with his mission first. See The Huntsman wicked Things quest. On the bloody munn muen kill the lawyer after you have dealt with members of the Black Ring. After you kill the Advocate, throw the Vision of the Spirit and talk to the Spirit of the Tree to find out Jahan's name after. (First, you need to know the name of the tree. The entrance to the Sanctuary tell Jahan that the Advocate is dead and you have the name of the demon to complete the search. If Vine is with you, Jahan will try to cure her, but he will fail. He agrees to join you on Lady Revenge and encounter a demon later. The rest of the description below can be found in the Orders of the Doctor. The demon is in the city of Arks (Act 4) when you arrive, talk to Jahan, and he will reveal his plans to try to defeat the demon alone, after that you also need to talk to Maladi so that the party can meet her at the doctor's house. If you want to enter the doctor's house, you must do something first, either you kill Isabelle (female dwarf) or free Archa inside Lord Kemma's Vault. When you receive an invitation to go to the doctor's house (Black House) and at the entrance you will meet Maladi again. Talk to her and she will teleport you to the dimension of the demon, while you come across candles, each containing the soul of the victim of a demon lodged inside. Then you are given a choice: sniff candles or not. Moral decisions aside, sniffing out candles makes wrestling much, much easier, but provides less XP. Choosing what to do with candles, go inside and try to kill the nurses first, as they will continue to polish the demon with haste and strengthening (each nurse has virtually no physical armor, which makes physical attacks incredibly effective). Once you defeat all the nurses talk to the doctor and he will show his true form on his first turn. Try to use your source as fast as you can, since it can consume yours. Once you defeat the demon there is a small surprise for you from Lohse. You can go to the doctor's basement (inside a room filled with corpses) and find Jahan locked inside. There are also cabinets locked with magic, but luckily your lockpicks can still unlock them. One of the cabinets gives the armor of the Kwin, which gives you the ability to fly. Unfortunately, there is no true romance to be had with him, because he will most consider you his slave, while his love is reserved for someone at home. That's why he's undoubtedly the worst companion to romance. 11 As a romance his first step is to talk to Stingtail and then to Bahara at the Amadia Sanctuary. It is important to maintain her attitude by encouraging her. She charms with a powerful set of spells, and at the end of your journey she seems happy to come along with you wherever you go, making her a pretty good version of romance. 5 As a romance demon her Lohse will first prove herself when meeting Sahaila. During the ensuing battle, you should not harm Saheila, but instead drain the viability of Lohse enough not to kill her, but to cause the next event. In Fort Joy prison, one of the inmates will call you to look for Jahan, a companion from the previous game Divinity: The Original Sin. The quest takes you to Bloodmoon Island, where after killing the Advocate you will discover the name of the demon she is tormenting. The last battle against the demon will take place in Arks, where he will first prove himself as a Doctor. 4 Ifan Ben-Mezd Egan - a former crusader, left as a mercenary. As a result, he now wants revenge on The Son of Lucian and generally despises the Divine. Ifan is a Wayfarer and can summon the wolf to help him in battle. Depending on the choices you make at the end, he will either despise you or love you. 3 As he romances him in Fort Joy, the first step to completing his quest is to talk to Saleskar outside the fort. To start your quest, you need to let her meet and kill Stingtail in Fort Joy. Once you find Roost, he will tell you that the Master is on an unnamed island. Her quest really comes to an end only after you find and kill Prince of Shadows, who is also her former Master.
