

Stephanie Scheller has been studying and using psychology to grow her businesses for more than a decade. She built her first business from scratch to walk away from her job in less than five months and doubled her event-production company during a global pandemic, on a $0/month marketing budget.

Stephanie uses the violin onstage to tap into the brain and break down the “Why” behind business growth tools and marketing to simplify implementation so we can accelerate growth.

She is a TEDx speaker, a three-time best-selling author, an award-winning entrepreneur, the producer of a pop-ballad, an eight-episode TV show, and a professional comic panel as well as the founder of Grow Disrupt, a company that designs and produces “Grow Your Business” retreats and conferences for ADHD small business owners!

In her downtime, you’ll find Stephanie playing on the violin, out in her beloved Texas Hill Country, or scribbling away at her fantasy books and stories!
