The City of Vengeance is an Indian neo-Noir action film directed by Sriram Ragavan in 2015 , produced by Dinesh Vijan and Sunil Lullia under the films Maddock Films and Eros International based on the novel by Italian writer Massimo Carlotto The Dark Abyss of Death. The main roles were starring Varun Dhawan and Nawazuddin Siddiqui, and starring Huma Kureshi, Yami Gautam, Vinay Pathak, Divya Dutta and Radhika Apte. The film was released on February 20, 2015. Box Office India reported that Badlapur has raised about ₹$789 million ($11 million) worldwide. On January 11, 2016, the film was nominated for Best Picture at the 61st Film Awards, as well as in other categories. Plot Two friends, Lyak (Nawazuddin Siddiqui) and Harman (Vinay Pathak), rob a bank in Pune and steal a car belonging to Misha (Yami Gautam) and her son Robin escape. During the chase, Robin falls out of the car, and Misha gets shot. According to the plan, Harman jumps out of the car and runs away while the police arrest Liak. Misha and her son died of their injuries in hospital, smashing ragav Ragu Purohit's husband (Varun Dhawan), who brutally attacked Lak in prison, before he learned through Inspector Govind (Kumud Mishra) that Liak had a partner. Soon, Raghu turns to a private detective, Ms. Joshi (Ashwini Calsekar), who tells him about Lyak's girlfriend and a sex worker, Jimli (Huma Kureshi). Ragu meets and interrogates her and offers all the insurance money he received for his son's death, in exchange for the fact that he called the name of Liak's partner, but Jimley refuses. As a result, an angry Ragu makes her dance for him and eventually rapes her. Lyak was found guilty of robbery and sentenced to prison, while Ragu is referred to a reclusive life away from Pune. Fifteen years later, Lyak is terminally ill and wants to spend the rest of his life with his mother. Ragh is approached by a social worker Shobh (Divya Dutta), who asks him to forgive Liak, but he refuses. However, he changed his mind when he said the name of Lyak's partner is his mother, zinat (Pratima Kazmi), who wants her son to be released on parole for compassionate reasons. Lyak parole but follows police secretly in order to lead to your partner. Raghu finds Harman and gets close to his wife Kanchan Coco Khatri (Radhika Apte), who invites him to lunch at his home, where the true intentions of Ragu are revealed. Harman agrees that he was involved in the robbery, but denies that he killed Misha and Robin, and tries to deal with Ragu, who threatens to call the police. Coco begins to beg him to spare them, in exchange for which Ragu demands that she sleep with him. Harman and Raghu fight, in which Raghu overpowers the first and goes to the bedroom, where he takes revenge, making a strip of Coco and forcing her to shout that Harman believe that they had sex. Jak contacts Harman for his share of money and arranges a meeting. However, Ragu arrives at Harman's house first, where he kills Coco and Harman with a hammer. He then goes to meet Shobha and pretends to be in love with her, creating the perfect alibi. Lyak becomes suspicious when the police begin to investigate the disappearance of Harman with his wife. He told him that she had given the name Harman Raghu in exchange for Liak's own freedom. Shobha is furious to discover that Ragu told the cops they were having sex. Raghu arrives at home, where a fight broke out between him and Lyak, resulting in The Latter beating the latter unconscious. When Lyak wakes up, Raghu explains his entire method of work before Lyak shows himself to be the one who killed the Ragu family out of panic, unlike Ragu, who, according to Lyak, planned his murders with a cold mind and without guilt. He then goes to a meeting with Jimley, who is being overthought by a local businessman, Patil,' for the last time and tells her that he is nearing death. With circumstantial evidence against Raghu, Govind tries to blackmail him to give him a share of Liak's money. However, Lyak enters the police station and takes the blame for Ragu's crimes, giving him a second chance to live his life and redeem himself. Seven months later, when Lyak dies of cancer in prison, Jimley meets Raghu and makes him realize the futility of revenge. She then drives off with Patil in the car, leaving him standing in the rain. Critical admission Rotten Tomatoes, the film has a 92% rating, based on 8 reviews, with an average rating of 7/10. Raja Sen of Rediff.com rated it 4 out of 5 and said, Badlapur is a dark, unwavering, fantastic film. Sudkhish Kamath of The Hindu wrote that the film was darkly ambitious and very well done. Rashit Gupta of Filmfare said he had exciting performances, stellar storytelling. NDTV's Saibal Chatterjee rated it at 3/5 and noted the widespread contempt for women in the film, writing: If you can ignore the overt misogyny throughout the film, Badlapur has thrown enough surprises to keep the audience's interest until the bitter end. Mohar Basu of The Times of India rated Badlapur 4 out of 5. Shubhra Gupta of The Indian Express rated the film at 2.5 stars out of 5, describing it as exciting, but also noted that the film goes too far-fetched in many places and leaves us hanging in others. Rajiv Masand of CNN-IBN rated it 3.5 out of 5 and wrote: The pace is waning after intermission, the plot tricks a lot, and it can be said that the film is misogynistic in its treatment of women ... However, the movie keeps you on your toes, curious to see where its twists and turns will lead. In December 2015, Badlapur received 15 nominations for the Stardust Awards, with the maximum number of nominations for one film per year.
