Loading Interview QuestionsUsed Online Application. This process takes 3 weeks. I was interviewed at Quizlet (San Francisco, CA). InterviewIntro, high-tech screen, on- spot. Screen technology is an algorithm-based question so it's pretty simple. On the spot there are 2 technology screens and the rest is behavior. Screen-based technology repos you will have to prepare in advance. Based on what I can say: you have the opportunity to search for things if you want to search for documents. You get the impression that it won't be considered negative -- don't believe it. It can be used as a sign of weak technical skills. Interview QuestionsInterviewInvolved process with several rounds. You respond with leadership and complete coding challenges on your laptop. There are no algorithms or trick questions in coding challenges. You're asked to perform the tasks they'll encounter when developing their app. Interview questionsUsed I apply through employee referrals. This process takes more than 4 weeks. I interviewed at Quizlet in March 2020.InterviewQuizlet is one of the best companies I've recruited for an internship. The hiring manager for product design internships is very transparent about the process and timing for the beginning, and implements the really clear expectations that I love. She also gave me feedback before my last interview which I thought was extremely thoughtful. I ended up getting the offer and decided to take it, and I'm so excited!!! Interview questions Online app. This process takes 5 weeks. I was interviewed at Quizlet (San Francisco, CA). Interview love all the conversations I've had so it is unfortunate that the recruitment experience is so poor. There was a first round interview with the hiring manager that went well and was invited to the spot during the half day of the interview. Everyone I talk to is smart and has great things to say about the company. There's an interview that's a bit weird in the format; the interviewer didn't ask me anything and the whole interview was supposed to be asked by me, but I enjoyed all the conversations overall. At the end of the spot I was told that I would be listening again shortly. I followed up with the recruiter then with a thank you note, and then didn't listen back for a week. Contact the employer for updates and don't even receive a response. Received a generic automatic rejection email three weeks later with some grammar errors. It is good to reject applicants, but after they have invested a lot of time in your hiring process, I feel that they at least deserve to hear back in a reasonable time frame. Interview questions Online app. This process takes a week. I was interviewed at Quizlet (San Francisco, in February 2020.Interview One of the most seamless interview processes I've had! I was quite actively looking for a new opportunity so I was with many companies and Quizlet is the fastest and most communicating of all of them. I went from phone interview to spot to an offer in 1 week! One of the main reasons I'm so interested in Quizlet is the value of their company, and throughout my entire interview process, every person I meet really expresses each of these values, from humility to wanting to always learn something new. All my conversations felt so organic and genuine that I almost forgot I was interviewed at one point. Interview questionsUsed in person. I was interviewed at Quizlet.InterviewEww! It begins with a telephone interview. Standard Leetcode questions the average with the manager. Really enjoyed it. I was invited on the spot and that's where things got worse. I was asked to copy git repo and do part 1 before going to the spot. Then I found part 1 I had to do on the spot. Misleading instructions. I mentioned that I was a front-end guy from the start but then in other interviews I was forced to do back-end. The person who interviewed me didn't understand her problem and I had to fix her. Need not say that I wasted my precious day spot in a terrible mixup. It has left a bitter taste in my mind and it really shakes my confidence. All this could have been prevented with proper communication and set up a great interview questionInterview QuestionsInterviewAfter having scheduled and confirmed an on-site interview with me, the recruiter canceled the calendar event without comment. The company then skipped my email for several days and then finally less than 24 hours before my interview, they told me that they canceled my interview because they gave the job to someone last week and forgot to let me know. There are other problems throughout the process, but this is the most ridiculous. I applied through an employer. This process takes 2 weeks. I interviewed at Quizlet in December 2019.InterviewI interviewed for the position of Senior Software Engineer at Denver CO for their new Search team. I would like to note that the actual phone interview went well. The engineer I spoke to was professional and was a pleasure to talk to. My problem is with the employer I interact with. The first time out of the interview was scheduled at the wrong time with the time I was given based on PST instead of mountain time where the interviewer was located (I'm on the East Coast time). The initial time I was given came and went and after an hour I guessed that maybe the time was wrong. I tried to join the Hangout call again an hour later and managed to connect with the interviewer and conduct the interview. During that 1 hour distance, I tried to contact the to find out what happened and received no response. My second problem is that it has been a month since the interview and I have heard nothing either way about their decision. Of course I assume do not want to proceed, which is good, however it is extremely unsym professional to hear nothing. Interview QuestionsApplicationApplicationApplication through an employer. This process takes 5 days. I interviewed at Quizlet.InterviewT I spoke to 2 employers Amber and Jee. The call went well and then I talked to the engineer. It's a typical online technology monitor quite standard. I would love to talk to engineers as well. After the call I sent out an email Thank you. I never heard back from Recruiters.Small Advice: It's ok to reject candidates. Show some courtesy at least let them know. They spend their precious time interviewing with you.
