It was released on May 7, 2013 by G. P. Putnam's Sons. The novel is the first in the 5th Wave trilogy, followed by the infinite sea, and the last book is the last star (novel). The story follows 16-year-old Cassie Sullivan trying to survive in a world ravaged by waves of extraterrestrial incursions that have decimated the earth's population. Critics compared the book favorably to The Hunger Games and the Road,[1] and noted that it should have done for strangers, which Twilight did for vampires. [2] Sony Pictures released the film adaptation in January 2016. Cassiopeia Marie Sullivan's characters, the protagonist of the novel, are 16 years old, short and have curly strawberry-blonde hair. Before the waves hit, she shook off Ben Parish, the popular footballer. He's having an affair with his silencer, Evan Walker. Evan Walker - a boy from rural Ohio who lived with his large family; He is described as chocolate brown eyes and brown hair. His family and girlfriend were killed during the 3rd wave. He has a brief relationship with Cassie. Benjamin Thomas Parish/Zombie – popular footballer and honorary student at Cassie High School; He is described as tall, buffed and dark-haired. In high school, Cassie shook up Ben, but he didn't notice her. After the 3rd wave, Ben coincides with the plague, but is rescued by soldiers who take him to Camp Haven. There it becomes part of Detached 53 and is renamed Zombie. The zombie soon discovers that the soldiers are actually aliens to cover up. He managed to get away with Cassie and Sammy. Sissy Parish- Ben's younger sister. She was killed by intruders while she and Ben escaped from the house. The moment it's broken. Fear, he left her behind. She wears it around her neck in memory of her. Cassie said Sissy would be stuck on Ben's shoulders after his football games and joined him at the parade. He says he misses Sissy terribly. Samuel Jackson Sullivan – Cassie's younger brother, who is five years old; He is described as relentless brown hair and large teddy bears eyes. They took him from the refugee camp where he, his father and Cassie stayed. He was taken to Camp Haven to join Unit 53 after being renamed Nugget. Nugget and Zombie become good friends, and Zombie acts like Samo's big brother. At the end of the novel, Sammy manages to get away with Cassie and Zombie. Marika/Ringer – the girl who joins Squad 53 after Tank, a former member, goes Dorothy (slang for crazy); she is described as tall and dry, with pale white skin and long, glossy, straight black hair, three-quarter Asian and apache quarter. She's the best shooter in the group and she's very quiet, but scary. You and Zombie become friends and help him shoot better. She is often threatening and serious to other members of the squad, but she can also be vulnerable to times. Commander Vosch – head of soldiers and head of the plans. He's very sadistic, cruel and pointless. He is initially portrayed as a hero to those in Cassie's refugee camp, but soon reveals his true nature by personally killing Cassie's father, destroying the camp and kidnapping children, including Samo, to fight. He is also in charge of Camp Haven and takes note of Cassie, Ringer and Ben Parish. Dumbo – member of detached 53; is about 12 years old, has huge ears, and is good with medicine and anatomy. Allison/Teacup – Member of Squad 53; She's seven years old. She was originally the only girl and was the youngest on the team before Nugget and Ringer arrived. Poundcake – member of detached 53; He's about eight years old, big and fat, he rarely talks, but he's good with a gun. Flint boy – former head of detached 53; He was about 16 and had one eyebrow. He often challenged Zombie's authority, especially in jealousy over his job as leader. Flintstone ends up crazy or Dorothy goes and ends up dead. Tank – former member of detached 53. Dorothy went (crazy) and was taken away. Dumbo and Zombie discovered him dead in a hangar for processing and disposal. Kenny/Oompa – Member of Squad 53; He was about eight or nine years old, fat guy, and he had broken teeth. When Zombie fires an explosion, Oompa is charged with shrapnel and dies after a failed attempt to save him. Waves First Wave: Lights Out: During the first wave, the second releases an EMP wave that releases all electronic technology and kills half a million people by shortening all vehicles, including mid-flight. Second wave: Surf's Up: Others, aware that about 40 percent of the earth's population lives within 100 km of the coast, drop huge sticks twice as high as the Empire State Building and three times harder on the Earth's fault, causing huge tsunamis that wipe out three billion people. Third wave: Plague: Others trigger a scheme to infect as many remaining survivors with the deadly virus as possible. Using earthbirds as carriers (through falling ejection), plague requires 97 percent of the remaining survivors. The virus, which is similar to an advanced form of Ebola, causes victims to slowly bleed to death until eventually they've become a viral bomb. And when you explode, you blow up everything around you with a virus. The fourth wave: Silencers: After the 3rd wave, the rest of the human population is desperate to survive, no matter what resources remain with the krado, and there are all the hopes that the main people, wherever they are, are working towards a solution. Over time, this belief seems legitimate when an impressive battalion of soldiers (with working vehicles) arrives at the idea camp where Cassie, Sam and her father are located. The soldiers and the commander, however, seem only interested in the children and immediately load them on the waiting buses before ordering all adults to the military. When people are surrounded, Commander Vosch orders a massacre and kills everyone in the camp. Cassie swings and witnesses her father's death with Vosch's hand. At the moment, the 4th wave becomes clear: not all people are actually human. Fifth wave: The fifth wave is referenced in The Last Star. The reception of critical acceptance of the book was positive. It received reviews from both Publishers Weekly and Kirkus,[3][4] and viewers noticed that it had a wide audience attraction, blurring lines between young adult and adult fiction, and between genre and mainstream fiction, so that it cannot be easily rammed into one genre, despite having many characteristics of young adult fiction. [1] The New York Times was one of the best young adult books of 2013,[6] and was a finalist for Best Young Adult Fantasy or Science Fiction in 2013.
