

1. CAS QuestionsWhat were the strengths and weaknesses of the course?

- The content of course is based on the discussion on what we have read. I do really enjoy reading the book assigned by teacher.
- I know more about the Asian American history.
- Strength is we really have wonderful discussions in class.
Weakness can be lacking experience of using APA format made me hard write formal paper in this course.
- I really enjoyed the discussions that we were able to have. I felt like they were very open and constructive.
The course really didn't have any weaknesses.
- I think the strengths of this course is the funny activities and discussion. It is a very great way to teach knowledge through this way.
- Strengths: Very intuitive, great discussion, great professor

Weaknesses: Some of the reading was slow and date heavy (not really a weakness though)
- N/A
- As an Asian in this course, I thought I was educated. I was eliminated many stereotypes in my minds, such as Model Minority Myth.
- Strengths: -group activities
-video demonstrations to expand upon course material
-Great teacher to relate course material and keep class actively engaged.

Weaknesses: None come to mind
- I learned a lot about Asian American history, and all the stereotypes put on them. Learning about this helps me better understand and better communicate with Asian American in the future. We have lots of interesting activities in class so everyone can be engaged.

What would you change to improve the course?

- I think the grade weight is a little bit strict.
- Maybe spend more time teaching things about APA format.
- Nothing- I thought it was great!
- I think Professor Aerial is really a popular professor.
- Not much that I'd change. I can't really think of anything.
- N/A
- If I can know some key concepts before the class, I can learn the reading and discussions better.
- To improve the course, I would incorporate an additional grade of participation.. penalizing those found to be on phones or not engaging in class discussion/activities to encourage better participation.