In January 2015, Trefoil will bring Boost technology to the lifestyle market with a shoe called the best sneaker in history. Enter Ultraboost. Adidas Ultraboost Size and Fit GuideTobias Platzer (@hypetobs) Sneaker photographer and Instagrammer from Cologne, Germany Adidas Ultraboosts were one of the first pairs of sneakers that made me think: I want it so bad. With its lightweight top and comfortable sole boost, it's the sneakers I wear every day no matter what I do. Styling: Today I have released Ultraboost 1.0 Triple White on foot. Since I got back to work after the I am classically dressed in light gray Chino trousers, a white T-shirt, a flannel shirt and a brown coat. When I wear Ultraboosts, I choose my preferred colorway first, then I will coordinate my clothes around it. I feel like every sneakerhead dress is the same way. Size and Fit: I'd say the Adidas Ultraboost fit true size, but it depends on the top. The upper parts 1.0 and 2.0 are a little tougher than 3.0 and 4.0, but that's not a big difference. I'm the same size in Ultraboosts as I am in air Jordan 1s, but in Air Force 1s (which fit bigger in my mind) I take half the size down. Ultrabust is the definition of comfort; I know great sneakerheads and people who usually only wear other sneaker brands, but they all have the same opinion about this silhouette. This is definitely one of the best sneakers for everyday life. Care: The upper parts of Ultraboost are really durable, but they will need some help if you want to have fun in them for a long time. I use Crep Protect for protection, it's the best. If they get really really messy, I'll use the Crep Protection Cleaning Kit to get them clean again. You can also wash Ultraboosts in the washing machine, but make sure to put them in your shoe bag so you don't destroy the tops. Jemuel Wong (@jemuelwong) Sneaker Instagrammer from Sydney, Australia Ultraboost is undoubtedly one of the best, most successful and prolific sneaker styles of all time. It's one of those rare silhouettes of sneakers that nails aesthetics, comfort and performance all-in-one. The sleek, contoured shape of the silhouette, combined with the overall comfort of the top and finished off with the iconic full boost soles, is an unsurpassed combination. They should have for me because they are so versatile; You can wear them with any outfit, regardless of the occasion. I like to wear mine while running, at the gym, or by accident. I even wear Ultraboost skin every day to work. Styling: What better pair to wear than the same colorway that kickstarted sneaker cultural revolution: today I wear Ultraboost 1.0 OG Core Black/Purple with a Northern Face Nuptse jacket, wrangler tee and I love Ugly cargo pants. These were the first couples I ever bought back in February 2015, and despite a few shabby here and there, they will still be strong. In my opinion, this colorway will forever be the best as it is just so versatile and can go with any outfit. I always like to dress up from shoes up; I wear a pretty minimalist outfit with functional aesthetics to match the colorway. It's an outfit that's comfortable to be all day long. Size and Fit: The fit and size of Ultraboost will forever be one of the most frequently asked question sneakers of all time. Depending on the different Ultraboost, I believe that the size changes because of the different top. Here's my tip on size: Ultraboosts with Primeknit top and cages are up to half the size because they allow space for your feet to swell during the day or during exercise. For later Ultraboost 19 and 20 silhouettes, go true size - I find that locks down heels are better. For my Ultraboost skin, I find it again true for size best as the skin stretches a bit after you have broken them in. Depreciation gives a soft, plush ride when worn for casual walks through the streets, but when I do more strenuous exercises like running or chain workouts, The Boost Sole adjusts and adapts to any activity I do. Nothing beats Ultraboost in terms of mixing comfort, versatility, aesthetics, and just a hint of hype (depending on the colorway) all in one shoe. Try to name the more successful sneakers that have penetrated both the sporting and fashion worlds in the last decade - I'll wait. Sure, the slides are comfortable, but would you run a marathon or do a set of squats in pairs? Care: My number one tip is to clean them up as often as you can. It is always good to take care of your Ultraboost. The reason why my og couple aged so well is because I give them the right TLC every few weeks to make sure they are last. When cleaning the top, I would use coconut oil-based cleaning solutions such as Sneaker-Laundry AU Sneaker Cleaner or Jason Markk. Boost midsoles harder, I clean them more often to prevent them from terrible yellow. Medium sosols are hard to clean because they are so dense they are made from many Boost pellets crushed together. So, in order to keep them white, you will need to use a much stronger cleaning solution. My trick to remove any dirt build-up or dirt stains is to apply sodium percarbonate paste (also known as Napisan) and vinegar. As the chemicals react, they hiss and help soften and remove any stains (use with caution, however, as this harsh combination can damage the upper). Gabe Chia (@abitgabriel) Sneaker videographer and photographer from Singapore Which makes Ultraboost a must for me as versatile, comfortable and well thought out they are. This one pair of shoes serves so many different purposes and I wear mine for daily activities like going to the supermarket, running, hitting the gym, or even at school. Comfort Shoe offers off the charts: its Boost technology allows my feet to feel soft throughout the day, and also helps me get a more consistent workout each time. After crossing into the lifestyle arena through collaborations with other brands such as UNDFTD, Hypebeast, Highsnoblety, and even Kith, there are only so Brilliant Ultraboost designs to choose from, allowing me to rock a different pair at each event. Style: Today I wear Ultraboost 1.0 1.0 White. Honestly, I love the 1.0 Primeknit template the most so I'm glad Adidas decided to overtherage it. Normally, I tend to style my Ultraboost with some jeans or track pants, all I feel that day. I believe that whatever you style your Ultraboost with it will always look good, whether you want your outfit to be more casual or a little more formal. Sometimes I like the color themed outfit, so if I wear red Ultraboosts I'll be wearing red track pants that day too. Dimensions and Fit: Ultraboost fits the right size unlike some other sneakers, so anyone who wants to buy a pair should stick to the size they usually get when buying adidas shoes. This really makes it easier for people to decide what size to get. Even so, due to the malleability of Primeknit material, you can choose to get them half the size down if you like. It won't crush your legs like other shoes, but instead will give you a tighter and more snug fit. The same goes for half the size up - Primeknit stuff still hugs your feet if you want a looser and more relaxed fit. However, if you have wider legs, it's best to go half the size for the best fit. As mentioned above, Ultraboost is one of the comfiest pairs of sneakers I have ever owned. It's a combination of both Boost technology and Primeknit material that hugs your feet to provide maximum cushioning and maximum comfort. In addition, its lightweight design also makes you feel less burdened when running. Finally, the very breathable Ultraboost Primeknit material gives increased ventilation, so that your feet never feel too sweaty or warm while wearing them. Care: Overall, Ultraboosts take care of themselves. However, I would keep my sneakers squeaky clean and the brand that I trust most to do so is Crep Protect. Their resistance spray protects your sneakers from items, so you can wear them to rain or shine, and makes any dirt easy to erase. Crepe napkins are useful for random wipe down my Ultraboosts to get rid of any dirt surface when and so. For deep cleaning stains that are not easily removable, I will use a treatment solution and brush. Brush.
