More Plants vs. zombie Heroes reviewAbout plants vs. zombie HeroesPlants vs zombies and Hearthstone are two phenomenal games that have always impressed in my opinion. I used to love Hearthstone because of its very deep duel strategy map, while Plants vs zombies became my favorite because there I really enjoyed the tower defense game. These two combinations of the game immediately crossed my mind as I tried to plant against zombie heroes. Plants vs. zombie spin-off game that appeared very amazing last week not only presents the fun of PvP action, but also presents the gameplay innovations that plants need against zombies to be relevant to current events. My guess was wrong because EA Popcap preferred to support classic plant gameplay against zombies, and combined it with a turn card game that actually reminded me of Hearthstone.So that plants versus zombie heroes? Simply put, I call this duel game a version of plants against zombies where two players play zombies and plants and then take turns playing decks of cards each to defeat the opponent. As well as the characteristics of the original game, Plants vs. zombie Heroes is an exciting line of defense action that includes rows of individual bands to divide players to focus on attack. Using the distribution of lines, each player will reciprocate the attacks with the cards they have until one of them is lost due to end life. Those who have played classic plants against zombies will certainly be very familiar with the line of defense of the game that plants vs zombie heroes bring. The difference is if we used to attract sunflower plants to get the energy needed for each card, this time the sunflower turned into a kind of special food that doubles your energy benefits in the next girIran. Like Hearthstone, the call of zombies and plant troops here involves the use of energy that will continue to grow and recover as the shift occurs. Later, each card you remove has a special attribute that is useful if it is located in a certain lane, whether on the ground, water, front, rear and so on. Speaking of plants versus zombie spin-offs, I don't think it would be complete if we didn't mention the various plants and zombie characters that always adorn this series of games. Here you will meet again with various pea plants that you will often use to shoot, boxer turnips that are good at beating zombies, explosive potatoes, and walnut plants that are willingly attached to the resistance of zombie attacks.Dr. zombies from the zombie faction also do not want to lose to revive the duel battle map plants against zombie heroes. With different types of zombies that are willing to do anything to get the human brain, this faction will attack opponents with a number of cheap cards that on average have lower health compared to plant fractions. Interestingly, in addition to a variety of plants and zombies, here you can also choose which heroes-heroes will represent their avatars on the battlefield. Each hero has a special which will give you a special card if you get damage too often from your opponent. With their special abilities, you can fill a number of lanes instantly, increase the number of lives and attacks some Move card units to the field and more. There are a total of ten heroes for each faction in plants vs zombie heroes, and you can open them one by one by buying a bundle for 100 diamonds. As an old plant player against zombies, frankly, what is presented by EA through Plants vs. zombie Heroes provides new entertainment that is a lot of fun for me. As with the duration of Hearthstone, each match here takes at least ten to fifteen minutes. In a relatively short period of time, I had enough fun with the thrilling action duel presented by Plants vs. zombie Heroes.The experience of dueling in multiplayer mode that I felt during a mild launch period was filled with various players who had devoted their time to collecting new heroes that I needed to learn more about their abilities. Although at first some of the characters who strayed into multiplayer mode seemed to have special abilities that were not balanced, but it didn't matter to tinker, because winning or losing would have been returned to the deck strategy that you had. Unfortunately, if you expect features such as emotion or chat, then you will be disappointed because there is no way to interact with your opponent. Seeing other card duel games always include this kind of feature, I think it's a bit amazing to see EA Popcap just ignoring itThe best part, EA also provides one player offline where you're challenged to duel against a number of computer-controlled heroes. Through this mode, you can even get a number of new cards that you need to build decks in multiplayer games. Overall, Plants vs. zombie Heroes is an exciting and very exciting card game to try. At this point I'm not sure when EA will end up with a soft plant launch against zombie heroes in New York. ConclusionPlants vs. zombie Heroes cheats provides unlimited diamonds, some people even say it's like diamonds. You can get the best cards using it.
