Information Redundancy - Coding

- ♦ A data word with d bits is encoded into a codeword with c bits - $c > d$
- ♦ Not all 2^c combinations are valid codewords
- ♦ To extract original data - c bits must be decoded
- ♦ If the c bits do not constitute a valid codeword an error is detected
- ♦ For certain encoding schemes - some types of errors can also be corrected
- ♦ Key parameters: number of erroneous bits that can be detected as erroneous and number of erroneous bits that can be corrected
- ♦ Overhead:
 - * additional bits required
 - * time to encode and decode
