1. So far this course my favorite reading was "Book War" because I found the topic and message very interesting and inspirational!

2. The most challenging reading for me has been "The danger of a Single Story" but once I understood the message I found it very intriguing.

3. My goals for the last 8 weeks of class is to become a better writer and sharpen my writing skills. I think that Dr.K has done a greta job with helping me because she gives detailed instructions and outlines along with leaving great feedback on my papers.

1. What is your favorite reading or topic in this course thus far?

All of the readings have been equally interesting but the one that stood out for me was the most recent one, "Sandra Cisneros Interview in the NEA Arts Journal."

2. What is the most challenging reading or topic in this course thus far?

I don't think any of the topics have been challenging because everything seems to be well thought out. Nothing seems too difficult to the point I'm stressing out but it also isn't so easy to the point I'm finishing everything fast. The level of difficulty/easiness is distributed equally in my opinion.

3. What are your goals for the last 8 weeks of our class and how can Dr. K help you to achieve your goals for this course?

My goals for the last 8 weeks are to be on top of everything maybe even ahead because I've been slacking and letting everything until a day before or the day of. There isn't anything else Dr. K can do to help achieve my goals because what she's doing now is perfect enough.
