Each image was set on its own, dynamic background with torn paper in a soft, spring palette of pastel colors. Working hand in hand with the client, as well as with our media partners in women's marketing, we have developed a comprehensive media plan. We identified potential prospects interested in nail and beauty trends, and used geo-targeting to achieve them on social media as well as on mobile devices, driving in-store traffic to run. While social media marketing is incredibly effective, print ads in traditional beauty publications are still effective in raising brand awareness and creating intrigue. For this announcement, we focused on the most innovative and disruptive products in the Magic Press line, click on toe nails that are safe for water - just in time for travel and beach season.
