When one cultist survived, Cassandra fulfilled her vow. To find them, she was called to where she learned of their existence. She's going to have to go back to where it all started. Assassin's Creed: Odyssey Sanctuary of Delphi, Phokis, Greece A Fresh Start is a virtual representation of one of Cassandra's genetic memories experienced by Leila Hassan through the Portable Animus HR-8.5. Described The Show Cassandra went to the Sanctuary of Cosmos to confront the last remaining member of the Cult of Cosmos. Cassandra's dialogue re-entered the sanctuary under the Temple of Apollo, this time fully armed and armored. As she walked down the path to the core of the sanctuary, she heard her mother's voice. Mirrin: Cassandra.Cassandra. The voice was distorted. Cassandra entered the main sanctuary. Mirrin: Cassandra.Cassandra. The voice seemed to come from the artifact in the center. Cassandra went to see him. Although its fragments had long been separated, the rays of light converged in the shape of a pyramid and seemingly invited Cassandra. After some hesitation, she reached out to touch her hand to the light. Vision her mind, showing showing standing in the chamber she was now standing in. Pythagoras: Cassandra.It should never have been like this. In front of her flashed images of the Greek world. Pythagoras: Decades ago, a group of people came together to support a theory that they thought could control the universe. That the world operates in equal parts, order and disorder. The image of Kira and Cassandra on the Funeral Bonfire Podarkes also flashed in her mind. Pythagoras: But some lovingly fell into the wicked embrace of chaos. And the Cult of Cosmos was born. The image of Leonid, defiantly standing against the Cult in Delphi, flashed in her head, after which the image of Alexios' night was sacrificed. Pythagoras: They abused their power by throwing the Greek world into the eternal war you were created to stop. Images of battles, as well as Cassandra's own struggles filled her mind. Pythagoras: Destroying the Cult, you did what I couldn't. You're a hero. But this imbalance comes with a price, my child. The image of the pyramid flashed in her head and then a mysterious man in a hood traveling alone before standing over the mountain fortress. This was followed by an image of the church, as well as a fraternity of hooded men and women charging a line of well-armored soldiers. Pythagoras: For without chaos, there is a higher order. Loss of progression and freedom. The image of an eagle hovering across the border entered her mind, and then an image of well-equipped ships tore each other to shreds. Pythagoras: But there is still hope in you - hope, hope for the future that you will bring. This was followed by an image of another eagle hovering over the great place of worship. Another eagle hovered over the bridge leading to the massive tower. Pythagoras: We must correct the mistakes of the past. Use the staff. Restore the rift in the universe. The final image to enter Cassandra's mind showed her in unfamiliar clothes, holding the staff, and handing it to a woman in equally bizarre clothes. Pythagoras: The world depends on you, Kassandra.You must be a hero again. The images stopped, and Cassandra took off her hand. As the pyramid continued to glow and flash with its strange numbers and letters, the familiar voice of a woman called to Cassandra from the outside. Aspasia: So you've seen it too? It's beautiful, isn't it? She smiled warmly at the pyramid, casting a side-by-side glance at Cassandra. Cassandra was confused by her presence. Cassandra: What are you doing here? Aspasia: You killed the last member of the Cult. Well, almost. She gave Cassandra the final cultic mask. Cassandra: What? Aspasia: It's true. I was their leader, but only for a moment it seemed. When your brother showed up, it changed everything we wanted. (If you could agree with the cult? was chosen) Cassandra: Did you agree with them? a bloody cult? Aspasia: The forces that will be in the Greek world did not do everything right. The cult just wanted a blank slate. Cassandra: As a result of corruption. Dirty drachmas. They killed people in a war they made themselves. Aspasia: Fueling the war was one method, yes. But it was controlled. Until all of a sudden it wasn't. And then I didn't like what we were doing anymore. (If not Deimos on your side? was chosen) Cassandra: I thought Deimos is on your side. Aspasia: Not as we hoped. As you know, it's impossible to control. He worked his way to the steering wheel and then he spent even more influence than I did. (If I can't believe you're one of them. was chosen) Cassandra: Malaka... So you were after us. Aspasia: Not you, your pedigree. People like Leonidas, like you, have always been a threat. Then we met, and you surprised me. You were with something like Deimos. Cassandra: Why not just use me? I was in your palm. Aspasia: You made me optimistic that you could help me bring down a cult that has become so corrupt. And you did, albeit unconsciously. Cassandra: You're all the same. Selfish, and damn destructive. Aspasia: At first it was different. It was not about destruction, but about redirection. Cassandra: Telling me you're a cultist took the guts. You know what I do to cultists, Aspasia. Aspasia: I didn't want to lie to you anymore. Now that they're gone, we can work together. I think we'd be good at a good fit, wouldn't we? Cassandra: It's a lot to take in, but I know you had good intentions. I don't think you lied about it. Aspasia: Never. I thought I could keep control, but I overestimated myself. He just ran away from me. Cassandra: I just don't get it. And what about this... Pyramid? How does it work? Why does Cult have it? Aspasia: I was trying to figure it all out myself. It's not just a mystery to you, it's for me. Aspasia: This pyramid worshipped cult for decades, and we used it to replace the Oracle of Delphi, the most trusted man in the entire Greek world. Aspasia: Using the people's reliance on the pantheon of dead gods would help change humanity in our favor. The pyramid had a mysterious power to make in time. But only certain people can activate it. People like Deimos, and the ones in your pedigree. Cassandra: But you saw something, too. Aspasia: I don't know how or why, but it will show me something. Cassandra: What did you see? Aspasia: I saw you. In the vision, you destroyed the pyramid and you destroyed the cult ... I saw what happened after. Cassandra: After the cult? Aspasia: We will be replaced by a new kind of order - control during the reign of the philosopher king. There will be a movement from the old gods to a rational society, built in the kingdom by the people, for the people. And I have to find someone who can lead them. achieve all this with a cult and their chaotic regime. So I allowed them to carry out their plans, and let the time of the cult of Cosmos end on their own. Cassandra: Wait. Did Pericles know? Aspasia: I wanted to protect it, so I kept it in the dark. He'd have his own opinion. But he should never have died. It's true. Cassandra: You made a dubious choice. But I think it was the right one. Aspasia: You knew him. All he did was worry about the state of the Greek world. If I told him, it would have ruined him. Cassandra: He trusted you. And in the end, you didn't protect him. Maybe he'd be alive if you'd stopped them. Aspasia: The gods know what I would if I could. When Deimos killed him, I knew the original cause was lost. I had to back off. Cassandra: So. What's going to happen now? Aspasia: We're shifting focus. We will be sent to a new republic under one higher rule. A dream I'll make a reality. Cassandra: But it's still a dream. One that's unrealistic. Aspasia: Give up what you know and just imagine! Forget democracy. There are no more blue and red, only citizens work for good. Cassandra: It's crazy. It's not going to work, Aspasia. It didn't work. Aspasia: It's not crazy, it's enlightened. Once Athens get the wind of it, they find out they wanted it all the time. Even you. Cassandra on the words Ofpasia. Cassandra: I'm not sure. Aspasia: You've spent your whole life thinking about yourself. Let go. What I'm planning will require you to trust me. Aspasia: Come with me. This future is not a dream. (Requires a previous choice of Flirting) Cassandra approached Aspazia. Aspazia's gaze widened, and she smiled. They kissed. Cassandra turned away and retreated. Aspasia played back. Aspasia: I suppose that means you trust me. Cassandra: I... I don't know what that means. Aspasia: I'll tell you what that means. Love is a special comfort, Cassandra. What happens next means harmony for all. Cassandra: You have to go. We have your new republic. Aspasia: I will not be a leader. We need someone with the knowledge of the philosopher and the wisdom of the king. Cassandra crossed her arms and walked to the exit. Cassandra: It's a high task these days. Aspasia: I couldn't have done it without you, Cassandra. You're doing the right thing. Cassandra: I always try to do what's right. Aspasia: Then we're after the same thing. Aspasia smiled easily at Cassandra and took her vacation to go ahead and start over. Cassandra: I can't let you do that. You've done so much damage. You destroyed the Greek world. Aspasia: You've proven you don't understand what we're doing. I underestimated you. Cassandra: Spain attacked Cassandra, and Cassandra gave her the same ending as every cultist before her. Cassandra: You have to go. We have your new republic. Aspasia: I will not be a leader. We need philosopher and wisdom of the king. Cassandra crossed her arms and walked to the exit. Cassandra: It's a high task these days. Aspasia: I couldn't have done it without you, Cassandra. You're doing the right thing. Cassandra: I always try to do what's right. Aspasia: Then we're after the same thing. Aspasia smiled easily at Cassandra and took her vacation to go ahead and start over. Cassandra made her way to the artifact when she heard her mother's voice coming from him. Mirrin: Cassandra. Mirrin: I still have a lot to do, lamb. Cassandra's contempt for the artifact and the grief he had caused her surfaced. She raised Leonidas' spear. Mirrin: CASSANDRA! Mirrin: ... The storm is coming... Cassandra loaded the spear into the center of the artifact. His light flickered and went. Cassandra drew the spear back with a heany of anger. She defied the final words of the artifact. Cassandra: I can weather any storm. Cassandra's result presented the Ghost of Cosmos, the deposed leader of the Cult, and learned of her role in previous events and the goal to which she aspired. It is unclear whether Cassandra killed her or made her dream of a better future for humanity.
