

ZERO WASTE PLEDGE

As a vendor at Civic Center EATS, I hereby pledge to do my part to make Civic Center EATS a sustainable, low-impact, low-waste event, by committing to the following (you must check all):

1. We will bring only certified compostable disposable items to the event, or items that the organizers approve as compostable.
2. If our business neglects to bring enough compostable items of any kind, we will borrow from another vendor (or quickly send for appropriate replacements). If we do not have compostable item and cannot secure them prior to service, we will not serve at the event,
3. We will not use any plastic ramekins or sauce packets of any kind; rather, we will provide either a condiment station, or certified compostable ramekins.
4. For drinks & desserts, We will offer only compostable straws (by request, if possible).
5. We will remind our customers to please compost their plates/bowls, utensils and leftovers - everything in their hand - when they are finished.
6. We will not provide any waste bins for patrons, and in our kitchen, we will endeavor to separate our compostables , recyclables & trash.
7. When the event ends, will pack out our remaining waste from back-of-house. We will not put bags of mixed waste in or around the event's zero-waste stations, nor leave bags in our area.
8. We will join in raising awareness around the zero-waste goals of Civic Center EATS as much as we are able during the event.

Civic Center EATS aims to grow its positive impact as Denver's premiere food truck event. With your commitment, we are helping to lead the way to a more sustainable, less wasteful approach to events in Denver.
