Ariana Taylor | The Detroit News Four Michigan colleges were ranked in the nation's top 100 for the second year in a row, according to U.S. News and World Report. Two of the four schools are located in Metro Detroit and offer a student-centered, international-based curriculum. Half of honorary schools are also supervised by secondary school districts – regional school agencies usually based on county boundaries. The best schools ranked nationally include, City High School in Grand Rapids, ranked 21st, Macomb International Academy in Clinton Township, below Chippewa Valley School, ranked 26th. International Academy in Bloomfield Hills, below the Oakland School Intermediate School District, ranked 40th and Washtenaw International High School in Ypsilanti, according to the Washtenaw Intermediate School District, ranked 78th. Compared to last year's rankings, the four best schools in the state remained the same, but City High School moved to no.1 ranking in Michigan. The U.S. News and World Report ranked more than 17,700 public schools in the country, and Michigan Schools made appearances in the top 1% in a report released by the media company. Michigan was ranked 17th. Of the 645 schools enrolled in Michigan, 27 made it to the top 5% nationwide. The best college rankings provide the most comprehensive, data-based information on nearly every public high school in the country, said Anita Narayan, managing editor of education at U.S. News. The criteria for rankings were based on college readiness, reading and math knowledge, reading and math performance, under-served student performance, college curriculum width and graduate rates. Families can use this information to see how their local schools compare to graduation rates and state assessments, as well as the academic performance of students who are traditionally under-served, those who are black, Hispanic or from low-income households, Narayan said. The report included lists for the best STEM and charter schools in the country, though no Michigan schools made the top 10 in those categories. Macomb International Academy was ranked 14th in the world. Rankings for the top 10 schools in Michigan included Rochester Adams High School in Rochester Hills, Troy High School, Black River Public High School in the Netherlands, Novi High School; Okemos High School and Northville High School. The report also broke down the rankings of districts. In Detroit's school district, Renaissance High School was in first place and Cass Technical High School in second place. Another 15 schools in the district were tied for third. Top 10 Michigan High School City High Middle School, Grand Rapids International
