1 overview and location

Glarisegg Castle, situated on Lake Constance, has been a place for encounters and the development of consciousness for over 20 years. A new culture is lived here in a variety of ways and the place provides transformative spaces of experience for people from all over the world. The Glarisegg Castle community, the permaculture garden, the seminar centre and the Vivo School for children with disabilities are also located here.

From october 1st to november 30th 2024, 2-3 living spaces will be available in the Schloss-Dach-WG, with the intention of experiencing, researching and creating a space for experimentation and experience for a regenerative culture. Living together and organising everyday life on the basis of radical responsibility can lead to personal transformation and healing.

The Next Culture Bridge House Glarisegg (NCBHG) is a project of the Archan Invention Centre Schloss Glarisegg.

2 intension and context

A Bridge House stands at the edge of modern culture and opens the way to a new culture. Archiarchy is the culture that arises naturally when we free ourselves from the thought patterns of patriarchy and matriarchy and engage in radical relating and collaboration.

Accordingly, the intention of the Next Culture Bridge House Glarisegg is to create experiential and healing spaces for a regenerative culture in which people build capacity to shape social interactions on the basis of radical responsibility and consider the common good in their decisions. People are invited to experience and co-create this new culture.

The time-limited space for experimentation and experience enables deep immersion in personal processes, which are accompanied by spaceholders. The distinctions, tools and processes developed in the Possibility Management game world serve as a framework for orientation. We use Torus technologies (e.g. making requests, decision-making after resistance, conflict transformation with a space holding team) to shape our everyday lives.

To be able to co-creatively contribute to the Next Culture Bridge House Glaris-egg, you need the capacity and the will to develop. We create a field in which we encourage each other and create spaces for healing. People who engage in this experiment are ready to go through transformative processes.

The following questions can guide your participation:

- What is your X on the map in terms of infinite possibilities, adulthood, radical responsibility, radical freedom, reactivity, ect.
- What is your next evolutionary step?
- What is your current reality?
- What is your archiarchal seed?
- What non-material value and bright principles do you stand for?
- What is your contribution to making the Bridge House a space for win-win-win?
- What do you need to bring circle culture to fruition?
- What identity can you shift into to show possibilities for a regenerative culture?

«Responsibility is consciousness in action»

3 possibilities for co-creation – rules of engagement

You can visit the Bridgehouse and its programmes on a selective basis or stay here for a maximum of two months. In any case, it is desirable that you share your experiences on the website and make them accessible to others. This could be in the form of a testimonial, article, video, interview, etc.

3.1 Personal requirements

Exploring a new culture based on radical responsibility means exposing survival mechanisms and defence strategies in order to enable authentic and radical relationships. The space holders stand for the realisation of so-called low drama and the invitation into new possibilities. This requires inner stability and openness, facing your own blind spots and not falling into reactive or projecting patterns, the ability to accept feedback and coaching, as well the will to recognise and experiment with new possibilities.

If you are receiving medical or psychological treatment, please clarify in advance whether your condition is stable enough to go through so-called fluid states. Fluid states are phases in which old emotions are present and are re-lived so that a new form can be found. Just as the caterpillar goes through the chrysalis phase and its cells liquefy so that it can then unfold as a butterfly, we consider healing to be a process of three phases in which the aim is not to return to an old (healthy) state, but to utilise the current challenges and take the next step in one's own evolution with more capacity and freedom.

If it turns out that you have overestimated yourself in terms of reactivity and psychological stability, it is necessary to end your participation in the experiment.

3.2 Application procedure for participation of one week or more

Step 1: Written application
