Explore howstuffworks muscle car channel. BJ Motors/DuPont Registry Speedkore, a company known for rebodging our favorite muscle cars in real carbon fiber, built a 1,200 horsepower twin-turbo Dodge Challenger SRT Demon for SEMA as early as 2018. This car was the first of four demons to receive Speedkor's carbon treatment. The one you see here is the last one and it's for sale. This 2018 Dodge Demon was listed by Texas dealer BJ Motors at the DuPont Registry, sporting the same full carbon treatment as the first car show. All of The Demon's factory body panels, including bumpers, roofs, napos, bumpers and torches, have been removed and replaced with equally shaped pieces of carbon fiber. The result is a car that is designed equally but weighs 200 pounds less - perfect for towing. Unlike the original car show, though, this Demon is communion his shares great setting. means that the 6.2-liter V-8 pushes out 840 840 to the racing gas, sending energy to the rear wheels via an eight-speed automatic transmission. Amazingly, he only has six (!) miles on the odometer. The original owner had the car weaned directly into Speedkore to process the carbon body before he dragged it into the collection to settle down. The car is now for sale at The DuPont Registry for $169,995. It's much more than IFRS, we know, but all the things that are taken into account would say that the price is quite reasonable. The demon is now full of collectibles - Dodge doesn't make them anymore. Besides, this carbon thing isn't cheap. If you're in the market for a demon, that's a pretty attractive way. This Dodge Challenger SRT Demon might be a car for you. This is the VIN #0043 that Petty ordered the new one, according to the sales list. He signed it in several places, and now it's for sale on eBay Motors. Petty is NASCAR's most successful driver so far, with seven championships and 200 wins to his name. He won the Daytona 500 no less than seven times, took 127 positions at the po downs and hit 1,184 races. At the age of 82, he still runs his NASCAR racing team and his restoration shop in North Carolina. There's a reason they call him the King of Racing. Petty got a VIN demon that matches his NASCAR car number, 43. It's an early construction that's chosen by the Demons, and with just 449 miles per hour, it still looks new. Petty signed the control panel and the front cow. Demon is currently listed for sale on eBay in Valdosta, Georgia with a Buy It Now price of $159,000 or the best deal. That's a little more than what the Demons are changing hands for at the moment, but given the original owner, signatures and low mileage, we don't think it's too crazy for a number.
