Beyond the rift podcast

Beyond the Rift, a League of Legends talk show hosted by The Tide's William Beetle He and Michael Imaqtpie Santana on Twitch, have been canceled, according to the recording announcement yesterday. The show ran for two years and nearly reached 100 episodes, featuring guests from all over the game community, including Riot employees, pro players, content creator, and more. Neither Imaqtpie or Scarra did elaborate on why the show was canceled, with only Scarra addressing it when he says sorry to be slow on the update, but as of today the BTR has officially ended its run. The recent episode rises in December with members of the featured actor from Riot's balance team game. There was a bit of turbulence after that, with an episode being cancelled at the last minute due to Scarra and Imaqtpie being unable to find a guest, according to the official show on Twitter. It's now unknown whether this situation was at all related to the show being cancelled. Both Scarra and Imaqtpie are highly active League content creators, so it's possible that other projects are on the way that are required excessive attention. Any way, the only thing we know for sure is that the Beyond Rift is definitely over. Newest oldest longest shortest x loading...
