A 12-year-old girl was sent to a hospital in serious condition after a RTA caused a large explosion on a North Bay Street East bus in Winnipeg Wednesday morning. Police were called at about 8:45 a.m. and found a bus on the side of the road with a section blown off the right side. The driver was standing behind the wheel, but the windows were shattered and he could not see out the front of the bus, according to police. The windows did not blow out, but the doors were blown open. The bus was towed to the Manitoba Police Service headquarters on Ellice Avenue. The girl was taken to hospital by EMS, where she was treated for injuries that were not life-threatening, Winnipeg police said. Witnesses say a bus was involved in a collision on N. Bay St. near Manning Ave. The driver was trapped inside the bus, which was subsequently detonated, sending debris flying in all directions. (Dave Carscadden/CBC) The Winnipeg Police Service's forensic collision reconstruction unit is investigating the crash, and the bus driver was taken to hospital for precautionary measures. Police say no one else was injured. A woman walking to work on N. Bay St. East witnessed the explosion. She described the scene as like "a bomb went off," and said it took some time for people to notice what was happening. Dave Carscadden, who was waiting for the bus at the time, told CBC he was on the bus when the explosion occurred. "I was looking at my phone and then it just blew up in front of me," Carscadden said. "It was just a massive explosion, I was wondering what I was looking at. But then I realized it was coming from the bus." The bus was part of a fleet that operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to and from hospitals. Although city transit buses carry a minimum of 20 passengers, many more people often occupy them. A Winnipeg Transit spokesperson said that because of privacy concerns, she would not be able to release the exact number of people who are riding on a bus at a given time. She said the average number is between 30 and 40. The city's transit buses are 520fdb1ae7
