I am a son of a wonderful mother who often shares the love of reading with me. At the age of ten, I spent a year at a French school in Surabaya. There I discovered the magic of words. At first I did not understand anything, but I have managed to read a great deal. Now I study at University to be a writer. I would like to share my love of books with others, especially the young ones. I would love to be able to introduce books to them and make them discover the wonders of reading. to a unique world and can change your mind. You may feel just a little different after reading a great book. I will always treasure the memories of my father. Thanks to the stories he read, my imagination grew. I am a son of a wonderful mother who often shares the love of reading with me. At the age of ten, I spent a year at a French school in Surabaya. There I discovered the magic of words. At first I did not understand anything, but I have managed to read a great deal. Now I study at University to be a writer. I would like to share my love of books with others, especially the young ones. I would love to be able to introduce books to them and make them discover the wonders of reading. The eldest of five children, my childhood was filled with laughter and fun. I had a wonderful brother and sister. When I wasn't playing, I was watching them play. I didn't watch the games that they played because they were too fast and I couldn't understand what was happening. I was only a child and I didn't understand much. I didn't know what books were until I was nine years old. I was playing with my brother and sister when my father asked them to leave so he could have a quiet talk with me. My sister immediately left, but my brother didn't. He was too curious to understand what was going on. He tried to stay, but my father told him to leave. I didn't like being separated from my sister. I wanted to stay in my father's company. My father wanted me to read books because he said I would soon be ten years old and he would be concerned about my education. I knew that I was ten years old 520fdb1ae7
