I'm using adobe Photoshop CC 2018 (20150529.r.88) (32 64bit) (9.0.4.5.25, 2,3,4,6,7,9,10,11) (free) on Windows 7 Ultimate.
A: It is possible. If you download the Corel Stitch 4 Portable version (I've tested it on Windows XP) it works. When you have a damaged picture, edit the picture so that it is of the exact size you want, then upload the picture, the stitches become visible. I've done it several times. But I recommend that you backup your picture before you try it. You might want to check out the free Adobe LiveCycle stitched in desktop app. I have it installed on a windows 8 machine, but I don't use it very often. I don't think it has any of the brushes like the stylus. There might be an option to stitch with brushes instead of the sticher tool. I would try the livecycle app first, even if it is only for a test run. EDIT: If you want to do this in the computer, you'll need to have photoshop. Then you'll have to use the project dialog and select an image. Select Save for web or a photoshop file, then make sure you have the right image selected. Then you can just go the next step and send the image. or even less. One more thing :

with their basic education the teachers, of which our prisons are mostly filled with (yup, most of them are incapable of dealing with the situation), will never have the necessary training to deal with the very specific problems and issues arising in a prison, and there are plenty of them, ranging from terrorism to sex crimes or drugs, not to mention more or less all other situations which they will never have faced in their lives. As for the few, they should have been trained to deal with them instead of creating more basic problems for the higher level officers. — this is more or less the stand that was taken by the French government in May of this year. The idea is to isolate criminals from other inmates. If one inmate gets away with murder (lolz, as if the US prison system would allow that to happen on a large scale), wouldn't it be easier for him to keep his cool while dealing with a bunch of 520fdb1ae7
