Most influential metal bands

The top 150 most influential metal bands of all time, if you have, please write your opinion on the list. I don't do this list because I think I'm more expert than others, but I think it's interesting to discuss things like this. I may be wrong in many cases, but I'll be glad only if you fix me about my mistakes, if you find or suggest other bands that are valued to be on the list. I tried to include only those bands that are fully accepted as metal, which is why many alternative bands are excluded. Author: Aristalcos ,18.07.2012

[List details of Aristalcos] 27.09.2012 Written by guests Alice Tarchos 05:59 How about a band that influenced crossovers like Suicide Tendency, S.O.D., D.R.I.? I don't have a reply yet, so I'll just add these bands out of the top 100. A better explanation of the crossover history if I find or someone gave me, I may adjust it later. And the corrosion of conformity was also very influential in that genre? Load... To make Alistalchos even I expanded the list to the top 140. Load... Aristalchos written by a guest on 27.09.2012 05:59 How about a band that influenced crossovers like Suicide Tendency, S.O.D., D.R.I.? I've checked out the crossover slash band now. They sounded more interesting than I had expected. Especially like the suicide trend - the light camera revolution and The Carniboa - retaliation. You still don't know which of these bands is the highest in the list. Anyway I included Carnivore on the list too for their influence on the sludge genre for example. Load... Aristalchos, written by Marcel Fubregutse on 5.12.1996 Road.16:013, mentions many of those bands also kiss as their influence, but it doesn't make an influential kiss for the Smadge genre. Anyway, I think Carnivore has enough influence to be included in the list, don't you agree with that? Aristalchos discovered that I had left Vrkanio behind. I definitely think they're going to start the extreme metal scene in South America and be on the list to influence bands like Sarcopago and Sepultura. I put them in random positions. Load... Eric M. Why don't you list a few bands for each metal sub-genre that pioneered the genre? You still have a pretty big list, but 150 is too much for an influential band in my opinion. I think there are too many bands that have become part of forming the metal genre for a short list, but if you want a short list, you can see the top 40. These are the bands that I think are the most important. When I was still really trying to compare all the positions against each other, there was how far I came, but then I did the best I could, but it became impossible. If you can dispute my order, I'm only glad for all the feedback I receive. I don't know if anyone else cares about this list, but at least I think I had a lot of fun doing this list, and I've learned a lot from all the research I've put on it, and some of the comments so far. Load... SilentShredder I can't agree more with this list than I've already done, and all these bands definitely value a place here, but I don't know why killing jokes are not on this list. They started/greatly influenced industrial rocks and metals in their later years and built the foundation of Godfflesh, not to mention affecting some of today's most famous metal bands like Metallica, Cone, Slipknot, Minimally, and even Nirvana and Soundgarden (but they are more grunge than metal). If you need to make revisions to this list, you need a spot in the killing joke. Load... I agree that they have a unique sound, but I can put all the bands with a unique sound on the list. It's really hard to the bottom. But I appreciate all the suggestions I get, so thank you for your comment! 23.10. How many Eric M. Tolkin themed black metal bands written by Aristalcos at 17:44 2014? I agree that they have a unique sound, but I can put all the bands with a unique sound on the list. It's really hard to choose from the bottom. But I appreciate all the suggestions I get, so thank you for your comment! The main point is that Sammonning is an influential band of genres and the sounds they had 18 years ago were completely unique at the time. That should be enough to put them on the list. Lyrics are obviously a big factor in what the band is about, so it's strange what you say about the lyrics. If the subpoena didn't have Tolkin lyrics (or see the book) or the title of the song, what tie would they have with Tolkin? If the subpoena didn't have Tolkin lyrics (or see the book) or the title of the song, what tie would they have with Tolkin? Well, I added them to the end, but I wasn't a fan of genre names based on themes and the music, not cirith Ungol on that list contains verism in black metal much earlier on the Tolkin theme, but I'm not sure if he had a Tolkin connection than the name.
