For an extensive history of changing the texture of the block throughout the game, see Texture Update is an update released in Java Edition 1.14, Bedrock Edition 1.10.0 (with further amendments to Bedrock Edition 1.11.0) and PlayStation 4 Edition 1.90. The update changes most of the textures in the game, with the exception of a few iconic textures such as vines. The textures were developed mainly by JAPPA (Jasper Boerstra). Original textures (with the exception of leather horse armor) are available as a resource/texture package built into the Java Edition only or as a separate download (bedrock edition only) (named The Art of the Programmer in the Java Edition, and Classic Textures in the Bedrock Edition), (4) Textures (edit) Blocks (edit) Natural blocks (edit) Plants (edit) Leaves (edit) Manufactured utility (edit) Mechanism (edit) Creative Only (edit) Elements (edit) Raw (edit) Transport (edit) Title Old Texture New Texture New Texture All Minecarts Elytra/Broken Elytra Food Food (edited) Weapon (edited) Title Old Texture New Texture New Texture All Swords Fire Charge Snowball Spectral Arrow Armor (edit) Utility (edit) Mechanism (edit) Title Old Texture New Texture Redstone Repeater Redstone Comparer Manufactured edit Potedia (edit) Title Old Texture New Texture New Texture The zelier Protracted Potion Creative Only Editiing Title Old Texture New Texture Barrier Structure BarrierAst Structure Void Knowledge Of the Book of Essence (edited) Passive edit Neutral edit Editing Editing titled Old Texture New Texture New Texture All Boat All Minecart Elytra Miscellaneous edit GUI edit Edit) Missed textures,edit) Although most textures have been updated to suit the new art style, the following have been overlooked; Signs (except for crimson and deformed signs) still use old magazine boards and textures. (In the Bedrock Edition, only oak signs have been missed) Paintings still use the old texture of the boards on the back, edges and frame. Dyed versions of terracotta have not been updated, although their unpainted version has. The observer's upper texture is still largely based on the old texture of the polished cobblestone rather than on the updated version. The spectral arrow in the form of the entity looks much closer to the old texture of the spectral arrow than the new one. The texture of the foundation in the natural end crystals has not been updated at all. The GUI of the brewery stand still uses outlines based on the old texture of the glass bottle, rather than on the updated version. The charming graphical interface of the table still uses outlines based on the old Lapis Lazuli texture, rather than on the updated version. Viewer icons such as exit menu and teleport to the player are still based on the old barrier and textures of the ender's eyes. Trivia 'edit' on April 1, 2018, Texture Update was released on the Java Edition as an April Fool's joke, and a new 8-bit version of the default texture was released for the Java Edition. The new textures were available in 1.12.x versions and versions from 17w43a to 18w11a. It was announced that all Minecraft editions would get these new textures. The new textures were actually original textures using 8-bit color, which led to a sharp reduction in detail. The textures were returned to what they used to be, April 2, 2018. These textures cannot be re-activated by setting the device date until April 1, 2018. The Texture Update beta pack gallery at Minecraft Marketplace in Bedrock Edition uses screenshots from the Java Edition. In a deleted tweet, JAPPA announced on November 10, 2017 that the new textures would be available on all versions of Minecraft. However, the update was only released on Java Edition, Bedrock Edition and PlayStation 4 Edition. Xbox 360, Xbox One Edition, PlayStation 3 Edition, PlayStation Vita Edition, Wii U Edition, Nintendo Switch Edition and new edition Nintendo 3DS have yet to receive this update.
