Warframe beginner guide pdf

Trying to complete the star chart in Warframe? Can't beat this boss no matter what you do? Then these Warframe tips and tricks will definitely come in handy for you. Warframe is one of the first games that made me fall in love with the grinding aspect of RPG games. Warframe is a very grinding game, but the game also rewards your efforts with amazing prey and incredibly satisfying gameplay. I spent hundreds of hours playing Warframe on PC. I also got the PS4 recently, so I decided to play the game on the console as well. The only problem was I couldn't bring my game progress from PC over to PS4. Warframe still doesn't support cross-preservation. So I had to play the game from the beginning. Fortunately, I had a few tricks up my sleeve and I knew how to play the game to easily progress through missions and go forward. Today I share these tips and tricks with you 1. Loot All Be sure to smash each container along the way to loot everything you can. Do it with the first mission you play. Loot plays an important role in Warframe. You will need every tiny bit of material, credits and items that you take from missions to build weapons and other equipment. 2. Complete the Star Chart This may seem obvious, but you need to complete the starter schedule to get to the best parts of the game. Most new players make the mistake of trying to build new warframes only after completing a few planets. No! You need to go all the way, at least Neptune, to be able to build new Warframes and better weapons. Because all the materials needed to create Warframes are on these planets. 3. Build things to increase the skill rank skill is the alignment system used in Warframe. The best weapons and warframes will only unlock when you reach a certain level of skill rank in the game. In order to increase the title of master, you need to build a new weapon and companions. And then align them to 30. With each level you get with new weapons, you earn 100 skill points. So create things even if you don't need them. Once you rank them to 30, remove items from your inventory. 4. Build Boltor, Heck, Ignis, And Ortos Finding the best weapon to use in the game can be frustrating because there are so many weapons in Warframe. But, don't let your impulses make your gaming experience worse. Build the next weapon and you'll have a much easier experience of flushing away enemies. Build a Boltor to fight the crowd. Heck for flushing the big bosses with one shot. Ignis is great for crowd control as well. Use Ortos or Guandao polearm weapons as melee. All these weapons can be built at the beginning of the game between Mastery rank 2-5. 5. Combine fashion mods that make your warframe and arms stronger. You can't progress through the game without understanding mods. It takes much more than just placing random mods in slots to make do of them. Fashions also create special effects when you combine them with other mods. For example, when you combine mod toxins with Electricity fashion, you get corrosive damage. It's really cool to flush off armored enemies as this type of damage melts the armor. Learn how the damage works in Warframe. 6. Use Endo and mod updates Every mod that you equip in your frames and weapons can be updated to increase its status effect. And Endo is a resource used to update mods. You can get Endo just by performing missions. But not much. To get more endo, you do a mission to hunt for the treasures of ayana and sell ayana sculptures equipped with the stars of ayana. I know it's a lot to take in. 7. Save Your Platinum is the premium currency used in Warframe. You can use it to buy weapons and warframes without having to grind for them. But, you also need platinum to buy warframe and weapon slots. What you need when adding new warframes to your collection. When I first started my passage on the PS4, I got 250 Platinum for free for being a PS Plus user. And I did my best to save every bit of it to get more important things later in the game. On pc you will receive special offers up to 70% off on platinum. When you get the chance, stock up on the plate. It's going to come in handy. But, don't use them if you really need something so desperate. You can also earn platinum for free. Follow this guide for information about it. 8. Join the Clan Joining Clan is more than just an opportunity to find other players to play with. You also need a clan for other tasks such as trading and building specific pieces of equipment, weapons, warframes, and more. So join one when you get the chance. Read this guide for more information. 9. Build Rhino and Garuda Most beginner guides will tell you to build a rhino and frost. Frost is great for defense tasks with its snowball ability. But other than that, Frost is largely useless in regular missions. Instead, I prefer Rhino for difficult and boss missions. And Garuda is almost for every other mission. The rhino is a tank warframe and it has gained some great abilities that increase its armor and get damage to the positive effect. Garuda is a military frame specializing in damage. It basically transforms your health to the detriment. And can create a shield too. I love doing missions with Garuda, since I can get a huge damage buff. You will have to grind a lot to build these two frames. I had to go for 26 runs at Fossa Venus to get all the pieces to build Rhino. And it takes a lot more work to build a Garuda in Fortune. But, it will be totally worth it. 10. The best places for agricultural loans and affinity you will need both credit and intimacy, many of them to progress through the game. To get credits quickly on the farm, do 5 rounds of the Seimini mission on Ceres. You get about 25K credits with each run. If you equip a credit booster, you can that amount. Go to Helen on Saturn to quickly earn affinity. Affinity is something that will help you rank your weapons and warframes to 30. Helen's mission will help you get your equipment to 30 in just a couple of runs. Be sure to go with the team. This allows you to earn a common affinity. 11. Get k-Drive K-Drive as a hoverboard you can use to get around the open world. This is a must-have when performing bounty and missions in massive open worlds like Orb Wallis. You can get k-Drive after completing several major missions in Fortune. Once you get it, equip it in your gear wheel to activate K-Drive when you are in the open world. Archwing Launcher is also great for travelling in open worlds. But, you need to align up to Mastery Rank 5 to build it. And it requires a lot of resources. This way, K-Drive will help you get around until you get into Archwing. 12. Go Fishing and Mining is my favorite part of the Warframe game. It's just so peaceful and relaxing. Go to the seller in Fortune or the Plains of Eidolona to get fishing and mining gear. Then go and have some fun. You will also need the resources you get from fishing and mining to build important equipment like Archwing Launcher. 13. Use the Code Code as the Warframe Bible. It has everything you need to know about everything in Warframe. Can't find mods? Look for code! Do not know where to grow parts of the military frame? Look for code! Want to know about the enemies? Look for code! Well, you'll understand for that. 14. Join the Syndicate Joining syndicate as doing bonus missions without actually doing missions. When you join the Syndicate, you get insignia. When you wear these insignia on warframe, you earn points for the selected syndicate. When you earn enough points, you get to buy special fashion and equipment from each syndicate. There are special fashions that could completely change your gaming experience. How to double the damage from weapons. Since you can get them basically doing nothing, it's worth joining the syndicate. Choose one and just join. 15. Learn to trade can be a useful way to find mods and prime warframe parts without having to grind for hours. Once you join the clan, you can trade items using a trading post in the dojo clan. You can also trade and sell items by driving to the Maru Bazaar on Mars. 16. Do The Weekly Ayanan Treasures Hunt Talking or Maru, be sure to pay her a visit every week and make ayatans treasured. When you complete the treasure hunt, you earn a sculpting ayana. Which you can sell to A little quick Endo to update your fashion. 17. Keep an eye on nightwave nightwave missions as a battle pass system for Warframe. You can do daily and weekly missions to earn rewards. It's a fun way to play the game too. Follow Nightwave. This is a special booty that you can buy from Nightwave loans. These Are These updated every week and sometimes include rare and useful resources and fashion. Don't forget to grab them. 18. Farm relics and save Ducats When you complete some types of missions like defense missions, you will earn relics. You have to discover them to complete some planets. They are also used to search for prime weapons and warframe parts. Whenever you can, look for cracked missions and use them to open relics. Save all the prime parts you can. Then go to the baton and sell them for Ducats. Why? I'll tell you in the next review. 19. Meet Baro Kaeter Baro Kaeter as Xur of Destiny. Baro is a trader who only comes once every two weeks. It always brings some rare fashion, warframe cosmetics, armor, and more. He only deals with the Ducats. So don't forget farm fishermen when you can and save ducats to buy things from Baro when it surfaces. 20. Using resource extractors I only found out about this recently and wish I had known this long ago. Resource extractors are special equipment that can be built to automatically extract resources on the planet. Once you have completed all the missions on the planet, you can place a resource extractor to retrieve any resource found on the planet. Lots and lots of them. Without having to do missions over and over again. You can buy drawings for extractors from the market. 21. Don't be afraid to ask for help Don't forget to use the chat set to find help or find a team to perform specific missions. If you are stuck on a mission or having trouble beating your boss, open the chat and ask for help. You'd be surprised how many good players are out there. They always offer help. 22. Check Warframe.Market Usually, the only way to buy and trade things is to use a trading chat in the game. Most chat sellers are also very greedy as well. But, if you have platinum to spare, you can buy things for super cheap from the Warframe.Market website. This is an unofficial website where sellers list items for sale. All you have to do is find the item you want, copy the text, and insert it into the chat game to contact the seller. 23. Learn to be patient Warframe is a game made to test your patience. When building warframes and weapons, you will have to wait days until they are finished construction. Don't give up and use platinum to speed up the construction process. Save the boards. Just learn to be patient. Go do other missions and find resources to create other items. Know any other interesting Warframe tricks? Share one with us in the comments.
