The website, pakmoonsighting.pk, was launched by Chaudhry's ministry to stop the lunar controversy that rears its head in the country every year before religious holidays. Named Moon Sighting Pakistan, the website contains sections such as the monthly Hijri (Islamic) calendar for the next five years, the day-to-day lunar calendar with dates from the Gregorian calendar, and the dates on which the first day of each lunar month will fall. Also available are scientifically specific dates for all major Islamic festivals/days for current and future years. Readers can access the yearly data on the New Crescent, monthly moon visibility maps and monthly moon coordinates in major cities on the site as well. Chaudhry earlier this month announced that a lunar calendar prepared by a scientific committee formed by the government showing the exact dates of important Islamic events - Ramadan, Eidul Fitr, Eidul Aja, Muharram - would be completed by the 15th Ramadan. He said the mobile phone app was also being prepared by a scientific committee, after which people would also be able to see the moon on their smartphones. On 3 May, the Minister formed a committee of five experts from the Ministry of Science and Technology, the Meteorological Department and the Pakistan Space and Upper Atmosphere Research Commission (Suparco) to determine lunar dates and months from a scientific point of view, putting an end to the practice of its physical search using telescopes. The National Assembly was informed recently that a sum of 3.06 million rubles was spent last year on the observation of the crescent moon for Muharram, Ramadan, Eidul Fitr and Eidul Azh. Also known as the Hijri calendar of 1441, it began after the Prophet's Hijri (PBUH) in Madina. The beginning of each month depends on the appearance of the moon at the end of the previous month. As soon as the moon is seen, a new month begins. Each month begins with a new lunar cycle. Thus, the Muslim calendar gives only a preliminary overview of the upcoming Islamic dates, as the beginning of each month depends on the observation of the moon. The Islamic calendar consists of 12 months similar to the Gregorian calendar. However, it consists of 354-355 days as opposed to 365-366 days in the normal calendar. The Islamic New Year begins with Muharram, followed by Safar, Rabi al-Awwal, Rabi al-Thani, Jumad al-Awwal, Jumad al-Thani, Rajab, Shaban, Ramadan, Shawwal, Dhul Kada and Dhul Hijja.Yagin war for four of these months is forbidden because they are considered sacred. The year is twelve months, of which four months are sacred: three of them in a row Dhul-Kaa da, Dhul-Hija and Muharram, and (fourth) Rajab ...
