This non-exclusive Service Agreement contains the full conditions that apply to the use of the United Book Exhibition Services described . As used in this agreement, CBE means a combined exhibition of books. Amendment; Notice of changes. The CBE reserves the right to change the terms and conditions contained in this Agreement, other terms, conditions of service, or any policies or guidelines governing the Services, including non-restriction, any information posted on the CBE website at any time and at our discretion. Any changes to the Site, including terms of service, or policies and guidelines referred to by this Agreement, will be in effect after such changes are posted on the Site and without notifying you. However, we will send you an email with any changes to this Agreement. You are responsible for a regular review of the site and the terms of reference to the registration pages for these changes. YOUR CONTINUED USE OF THE SITE AND SERVICES AFTER WE HAVE POSTED ANY CHANGES TO THE AGREEMENT ON THE SITE WILL CONSTITUTE YOUR ACCEPTANCE OF SUCH CHANGES OR CHANGES. IF YOU DO NOT AGREE WITH ANY CHANGES TO THIS AGREEMENT OR ON THE SITE, DO NOT CONTINUE TO USE THE SERVICE OR WEBSITE. A person, company, reseller or marketing company acting on behalf of or registered for the author or company that submits an online combined form of book exhibition registration is responsible for the accuracy of the information provided and agrees to all conditions stated here on behalf of the author or company. The information provided during the registration process, exactly how it will appear in the catalog of the exhibition of the combined book (s) and in its online search database (s): www.combinedbook.com It is the responsibility of the person, company, authorized representative, reseller or marketing company to keep the information provided by the CBE up to date and accurate. Resellers, marketing companies and authorized representatives are responsible for the accuracy of their client's information in our database in order to create a print and online catalog. This includes, but is not limited to, book cover image, description, price, PDF/Ebook downloads and ISBN information. Resellers, marketing companies and authorized representatives/publishing companies/representatives will also be responsible for reselling these terms to their authors. Registration is required before any books are mailed to our offices. We are not responsible for books received without attached registration and cannot guarantee that they will be displayed in our exhibitions. The author, company, reseller, marketing company or authorized representative is responsible for supplying the CBE with the appropriate copies of the display, as stated on the United Book Exhibition website. Exhibition. The registration process, including receiving copies of the display, must be completed by the stated time of each show on the CBE website. Registration cannot be changed after the published deadline for each show. The author, CBE reseller, marketing company or authorized representative of the author or publisher are required to download a PDF or Epub file to look inside the book. The CBE will show only 25% of the downloaded file. For example, if a downloaded file includes only 16 pages, only four pages (25% of the total number of pages in the file) will be shown on the CBE website. The pages shown will only start from the beginning of the book. The author, CBE reseller, marketing company or authorized representative of the author or publisher is required to track and update this information through the CBE login and passwords provided at the time of registration. If the author or publisher sends a pdf or epub file to a CBE employee to download on behalf of the content owner, you automatically agree to all CBE terms. Space is limited and the first come, the first to serve the basis. The display of copies becomes the property of the United Book Exhibition unless preliminary action is taken. Full payment by authors, publishers, resellers, marketing companies and authorized representatives must be made before the show date unless preliminary agreements are reached in writing. CBE reserves the right to refuse registration and/or representation at the exhibition (s) and does not allow pornographic material or books containing hate speech. Only authorized CBE representatives can have a staff exhibition. The placement of materials on the shelf in the CBE exhibition is not predetermined. Thus, the CBE is not responsible for the physical location in the exposure of the names on the display. CBE reserves the right to change the location of any exhibition materials to serve the best interests of the exhibition as the CBE sees fit. CBE is a means of advertising or promoting books and other titles. The CBE does not guarantee that any sales or orders will be generated as a result of its maintenance. A small amount of promotional material is allowed, with the exception of BookExpo's New Title Showcase, the London Book Fair's New Title Showcase and the New York Rights Fair Global Rights Showcase. If the author, publisher, marketing company or authorized representative of the titles on display attends the CBE exhibition, the next thing we will allow on our stands during the official exhibition days and hours: Photograph your name on the shelf. Take pictures with family members and friends with your name. Leave promotional materials on our desk in the booth for the party to pick up for certain shows (not including BookExpo and the London Book Fair New Title Showcase and New York Fair Rights Showcase) If the author, publisher, marketing company or or A representative of the titles on display attends the CBE exhibition, the next thing we will not allow on our stands during the official exhibition days and hours: Handing out promotional materials in our booth. Meetings in the exhibition area. Stay in the display area for long periods of time for any reason. Resellers Combined Trade Book Exhibition Services: All CBE service resellers must obtain confirmation from the author/publisher registering and displaying at the combined trade show shows that said the author/publisher agrees with the CBE Terms and Conditions above. Said confirmation must be in the form of an online checkbox or there will be a written confession included in the reseller contract, amendments, rider or the like. In the event that the reseller does not receive official confirmation from the client/author of the reseller, the reseller agrees to reimburse the CBE for any breaches of the terms by the reseller's author/client. Exhibit icons: Register on your book display, whether it's a print or an e-book, does not include an icon to enter the respective book fairs. Exhibition badges for book fairs must be purchased separately on the website of book fairs or at the exhibition. Fees will apply to purchase the badge and will vary from fair to fair. Any person, company, or marketing company that re-sells the services of The Combined Book Of Exhibits requires that a person, company or marketing company must include on its website or through other promotional events it is clear that the Combined Book Exhibition is a record company to display the author's names at the exhibitions the Combined Book Exhibition attends. Do the 2015 Sustainable Development Goals have an impact? What progress have governments made in combating climate change? Is there a viable solution to the Syrian refugee crisis? How to reconcile the concepts of universal human rights and national sovereignty? This is one of the difficult issues addressed in this new, fully revised and updated edition of the Introduction of Global Problems. The material has been successfully designed for readers with little or no prior knowledge of the topics covered. Each chapter provides an analytical overview of the issue at a: identifies the central actors and perspectives, and outlines past progress and future prospects. Discussion issues are raised to increase students' understanding of the difficulties involved, and further reading proposals further enrich the text. Michael T.
