By the end of this short article, you will be able to distinguish the difference between reading, listening, talking and writing sections of TOEFL. You'll also discover five TOEFL study tips to help organize your class schedule and improve your TOEFL score. The TOEFL exam is broken down into 4 sections: Let's take a closer look at what each of these sections are related to... The first part of the exam is the ToEFL Reading section. In the reading section there are three academic passages of 700 words each. Teh will consist of texts that you can find in a typical university textbook. After each passage, 12 to 14 questions about reading the passage. You will have one hour to read three passages and answer 40 questions in total. There are 10 types of questions in reading TOEFL. The frequency of each type of questions varies. Here's a useful diagram of the types of questions with examples of wording. There's a table here. Please turn your phone onto the landscape to see it. The listening section is divided into two identical parts. In each piece, you'll have three listening aisles: one conversation, between a student and a campus employee, and two academic lectures. Conversations last 2-4 minutes, and academic lectures last for five minutes. You will be asked five questions after the conversation, ten in total, and six questions after each of the four academic lectures, 24 in total. The types of questions, as in the Reading section, vary. This chart explains the types of questions, with wording examples, and the frequency of question type: There is a table here. The English exam provides some audio samples here. Then you get a 10-minute break... Use this break wisely. Stand up, stretch your legs, use the toilet or have a snack. When you return, you will still have two hours left on the TOEFL exam. After the break comes THE TOEFL Talking. The Talking section is different from previous sections of listening and reading. In this section, you'll answer six questions. The first two issues were independent issues, and the other four were complex. Independent questions focus on your opinion on the topic. The first of these two questions is an open question, for example, What do you think about ...? The second is very similar, but asks a pair of questions where you have to choose a side to agree with or disagree with. Here are some examples: What advice would you give to a friend who travels abroad to study at university? Whether or not you agree with the following statement: All high school students should wear a school uniform. Integrated questions are all different in type, task and time to prepare and talk. All of these include an audition pass, and questions three and four also include a reading excerpt. You will have to discuss and summarize each of them. Here's a breakdown of the four integrated talking questions: There is a table here. Please turn your phone onto the landscape to see it. (STICA 3) Integrated Talking Type Issue Issue Explanation Time Issue 3 - Campus Announcement and Conversation Report on the Opinion of One of the Speakers in Conversation and explain why he or she feels this way. 50 seconds to read 60-120 seconds to listen 30 seconds to prepare 60 seconds to speak question 5 - campus conversation Describe the problem of one of the speakers. After that, decide which offer be the best. 120-180 seconds to listen to 20 seconds to prepare 60 seconds to speak Question 6 - Academic Lecture Sum topics and highlights from the lecture 120-180 seconds to listen to 20 seconds to prepare 60 seconds to speak Finally, you arrived in the last section, section OF TOEFL Writing. The Letter section also lasts one hour. Here you will have to write an essay in response to two separate writing tasks. First, it is a complex writing task, and the second is an independent writing task. The integrated letter is almost identical to the subject #4 in the Talking section above. You will read the passage, listen to the lecture, and then write about them. The last question on the exam is an independent writing challenge. You will be asked your opinion on the topic, similar to Talking Questions, #1 and #2 above. Here's a breakdown of the tasks and time distribution for the TOEFL Writing section: There is a table here. Please turn your phone onto the landscape to see it. Download our free TOEFL practice test Now that you are familiar with the TOEFL structure, it's time to check out some exclusive TST Prep TOEFL Tips. Here are five things you should take while studying at TOEFL so you can improve your score. It's a test on time! And, each section of the TOEFL lasts somewhere between 30 minutes and an hour. That's why it's important to get used to the clock. When studying at home, ALWAYS do practical tests in a time-limited testing environment. This will prepare you to work under pressure and manage your time on the day of testing. See the time breakdowns above for each section of the exam. If you are struggling, practice without a timer first. Start turning on the timer with your TOEFL studies once you feel more comfortable working under the clock. You won't have access to a spelling check on the TOEFL exam. So you have to practice with the spelling check off! You will be responsible for finding your own grammar, spelling and punctuation errors on the day of the test, so start practicing it! This is especially the special for the Writing section where you will write 300 to 400 words of essay. Give yourself extra time to edit and adjust your answers, since you won't have a spelling there to do it for you. Want more tips on how to tackle the Writing section? Check out our 10 awesome TOEFL Writing Tips throughout the test, one of the most important things to do is take notes! You will need to give yourself a little more time to gather your thoughts and plan your answers. So, during the exam, you should take good notes. So you should practice taking notes about your practice tests too. I can't stress that enough. Note takes importance for each section of the exam! Want to know more about the notes in the Reading section? Having finished the ledge to the TOEFL reading time management as you prepare for the TOEFL, you have to do a lot of TOEFL practice test. Evaluating the toEFL sections reading and listening to the exam is easy, but talking and writing sections will require professional help from a teacher or TOEFL expert. Don't make the same mistake as the others. You need someone who knows about TOEFL to listen to your speeches and read your written answers. They will tell you your strengths, weaknesses and exactly what you need to do to improve. If you just download a free TOEFL practice PDF without asking someone to class your talk and write, then you are not putting yourself in a position to improve. This is why there are certified English teachers out there who are available to give you feedback on your practice exams, especially for conversations and writing sections. Contact them to get the help you need in preparation for TOEFL. Get ready for a noisy room on the day of testing. In the test center you will hear the voices of other students, because everyone will answer the questions of the section at different times. There will also be noise from people dropping their pencils, coughing, opening and closing doors etc. Believe us, it won't be ideal for testing. So, in order to simulate this kind of test environment, take full TOEFL practical tests in a coffee shop or in another, louder area. So you'll already know how to ignore these kinds of distractions on testing day! Look, we know that the TOEFL exam is a huge deal, and thank you for shooting it!
