When it comes to authority and decision,
Political science provides precision.

Examining laws, governments, and rights,
It sheds light on how society unites.

From local councils to global affair,
It explores policies and what's fair.

Understanding elections and governance too,
It directs us in what leaders should do.

Through evaluation of the policies implementation,
Political science aids with direction.

From diplomacy to conflicts resolved,
It shapes the future, problems solved.

By researching the past and the present,
We learn how societies implement.
