Copyright © 2020 InfoSpace Holding, LLC, a system1 Christian company expert Howard Dayton said the Bible referenced money with possession 2,350 times. That's a lot. It's more than Jesus talked about love, and more than he talked about heaven and hell combined. It's almost as if God knew we would need a lot of direction and clear on the whole money and stuff. Rue! Does he know us well, or what? So what's those 2,350 vests? Way more than we have time to talk about here. But I want to highlight three of my favorites. These are the optic opponents I turn to when I need a little guidance from my own financial decisions. I hope you'll be clean as wise in their hands as I have. 1. 1 Timothy 6:6: Divinity and contention are great to gain. (NKJV) It's interesting to me that in God's economy, we actually have great gain when we're not driven by the demand for more. Get expert money advice to reach your money goals faster! We all have different screws. Minors were still discontent. I've always wanted to accomplish more, better, faster. But here's the crazy thing: I experienced the greatest profit when I was content regardless of the result. It's okay to be driven to succeed, but it's unhealthy when success dictates our happiness. Let us not confuse content with apart or lack of ambitions, but let's also not become so consumed with any pursuit that covers our pursuit of God Himself. Content is the most important feature of successful people and money. That's because they think long and hard about the purchases they make and therefore have more money left on to save, invest and donate. 2. Proverbs 13:22: A good man leaves an inheritance for His grandchildren. (NKJV) This weight maintains the purpose of our lives, our vision and the front of our legacy as we choose how to use our money today. When we weigh what we want now against what we really want later, we realize how temporary satisfaction pales in comparison with a legacy of goals and generational progress. And an inheritance isn't limited to money. It also includes god's character types such as integrity and confidence. Combining a financial heritage with wisdom and goodness ensures that the next generation will also manage God's blessing of God's way for the glory of God long after I graduated from heaven. 3. Proverbs 22:7: The rich rule over the poor, and the slavery border for the borrower. (NIV) I love this one because he talks honestly about the relationship between a debtor and a lender. God wants to be in a position to hear from him and serve those in his name . . . they must not be in payment slavery. He wants us to have freedom and options. Many of us feel That God calls us to do great things for Him, but when we are in debt, we cannot. What's your weight turn on when looking for financial guidelines? God gives us a lot of wisdom in this area as an act of love because it is for us, not because He wants anything from us. A Bible reader locates a strawberry by finding the book, then finds the chapter, and finally locates the number that the strawer is associated with. Bible entrances are expressed in numbers, or occasionally and numerically Roman. For example, locating John 3:16 requires the first reader to find the book of John in the Bible. This is possible by locating the Bible table of contents, usually found on the first page of the Bible. The chart shows on which page number the first chapter of John lies. Once the reader turns to the first chapter of John, he has to find chapter 3. Chapter numbers are usually of greater type than the main text. When the reader locates Chapter 3, it then has to get 16 weight number. Verse numbers are the same size as the main text, but usually in a bold type. References to the Bible sometimes don't refer to just one full locker. For example, a reader might obtain a reference to John 3:16-21; this requires him to start reading at the number 16 and end once he reaches number 22. Another format to reference Bible is Jan 3:16, 22. This means that the first reader reader read weights 16 and then skipped 22 weight. Another type of reference is John 3:16a. When a is used, it means the reader only needs to read the first part of the entrance, while a b directs the reader to the second part of the roller.
